THE ORGANIZATION.

NEW-HAVEN, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Now, after 10 o'clock, this morning, the Delegates to the Quarterly meeting of the American State Council, of Connecticut, met, to the number of 500, in Republican Hall, Whitlesey's Building, Chapel-street. Among the most prominent of those present, I may name Governor Minor; N. D. Sperry, Secretary of State; Senator Dean, of Ponfret, Member of Congress elect; Walter Booth, of Hartford, ex-Member of Congress; John Woodruff, of New-Haven, Member of Congress elect; Simon Ramsdell, of Killingly; Judge Kellogg, of Waterbury; W. W. Wheeler, of Norwalk, member of Congress elect; C. S. Fancy, member of State Senate; and D. B. Booth, both of Norwalk—a very fair representation of the working politicians of the State. As soon as the delegates were in, the door was closed, and N. D. Sperry, Secretary of the State Council, took the Chair and addressed them. As I was somewhat delayed for cars when he first began, I may not have caught, literally, his introductory sentence—I know I give its spirit. He spoke substantially as follows:

HON. N. D. SPERRY'S EXECUTIVE ADDRESS.

Addressing himself to the Brethren and Officers of the State Council of Connecticut, he deemed it his duty to offer a few remarks in relation to the American organization. Most of those present, he presumed, were aware that the American organization in Connecticut was about two years old. How far success had been granted, they were well aware. It could now be said, with truth, that the American organization had met its opponents; it had conquered; and to-day, in good old Connecticut, stood, the acknowledged opposition Democratic party. (Applause.) It called for man master, (Applause,) and, unlike all other parties, it had a broad, plain, comprehensive platform of principles. With such a platform, they could defy the power of their opponents, let them call her what name they pleased. (Applause.) The present condition of the order had not been brought about without trouble. The organization of councils in nearly every town, has cost labor and money, sleepless nights, money and time, to all who had labored for its success. Councils were formed, but in the establishment of the order, and in order to work with each other was necessary, to some, they had met with great difficulty until they had learned the constitution for mutual benefit. Some councils had met the best, fearful odds, but notwithstanding that, and with the sharp arrows of the foulest slander hurled at them from every quarter, their sentiment, any of enemy, and minister, plotting with the old political leaders, at their very doors; using all the powers which mind could invent or imagination conceive; aided by Jesuit cunning and scheming, with those clothed in false clothing, and in short, all the powers of Hell combined against them, they still survived, and as a dominant party in the State. They stood better and on a more durable foundation; with better chances for success in the future than any other party in existence. The calling of the American order, serves to Americanize America; to give to it a distinct position and national character; to rid it of all Ecclesiastical, political and Aristocratic power, that would seek to place its votaries in power, and to hold the political power of the country, or enslave any class of the common farmers. This, he claimed, was a work worthy of freemen.

Passing from this branch of his discourse, and from the matters at present transpiring in the political world, he passed to consideration of the amendment to the Constitution, made by the last Legislature, and spoke of it as necessary to the safety of the institutions of the country, and as destined to be the most popular act done by any Legislature for many years past. He then recommended the holding of National Council, and, from circulars in his possession, gave the times of holding, favored by the Councils of other States. There was a call for a National Convention to meet at Cincinnati on the 31st of the present month. The call was made by the Committee of Correspondence appointed at the Girard House, Philadelphia, on the 15th of June last, after adopting the memorable protest against the Pro-Slavery platform adopted by the Philadelphia Convention. There was also another call for a Convention to be held at the same time and place by the Pennsylvania State Councils, who offer the following resolutions on the subject of Slavery as their national creed:

Resolved, That the question of Slavery should not be introduced into the platform of the American Party; being convinced that no such issue was intended to be raised within its political organization. That we believe it to be a violation of the rights of freedom of speech and discussion on that and every other subject not intended to be introduced within the purpose of our organization.

But inasmuch as the subject has been forced upon us, we regard the repeal of the Missouri Compromise as an infraction of the sacredness of faith of the nation, and that it should be restored, and if efforts to that end should fail, Congress should refuse to admit into the Union any State tolerating Slavery, which shall be formed out of any portion of the territory from which that institution was excluded by that Compromise.

Signed by Governor Johnson and others.

Besides that, part of the Philadelphia Committee still standing on the Pro-Slavery platform, had issued a call for a National Convention, to meet at Philadelphia on the 22d of Nov., to which the Virginia had taken exception, and recommended the 4th of July next. Again, the Council of the District of Columbia, had recommended the holding of a Convention on the 12th of December, at Washington, to take means to restore harmony and stop sectional agitation. These calls he recommended to the attention of a Committee to be appointed on National affairs. He then called the attention of the Council to a request for funds for the completion of the Washington Monument. It was represented that the money heretofore collected for that purpose had not been well spent, and that those engaged in erecting the monument were men of foreign birth; and, also, that native Americans were not allowed to work upon it. But these things had been changed by the new Directors, and now there was a desire for the completion. He closed by impressing upon them the necessity of keeping the finances of the Order in good condition, and urging them to be untiring in their efforts for the success of the American cause.

The address of which the above is but a sketch, was well received and when he had concluded, the Council proceeded to the appointment of Committees. When a Committee on the State of the order and the political state of the nation had been appointed, and one on the Washington Monument, the Council adjourned until 3 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 3 o'clock the delegates gathered in the Hall, when it was noticed that several new faces were among them. There of delegates who had not arrived in time for the morning session, bearing credents of Committies, was declared in order. When the Committee on the state of the Order reported in favor of local Councils to call their meetings (free of charge) for the purpose of choosing Delegates to the Convention for the nomination of State Officers, which report was received and unanimously adopted by the Council.

From the same Committee a report was received and adopted unanimously, that the platform adopted in June last be reaffirmed. The platform is as follows:

PLATFORM OF PRINCIPLES OF THE AMERICAN PARTY IN CONNECTICUT.

Resolved, That we declare the following to be the principles of the American Party of Connecticut, and we call upon all honest citizens to rally together for their support.

1. The maintenance of the Union of these United States as the paramount political good; or, to use the language of WASHINGTON, "the primary object of patriotic desire." And hence the full recognition of the rights of the several States, as expressed and reserved in the Constitution; and a careful avoidance, by the General Government, of all interference with their rights by legislative or executive action.

2. Obedience to the Constitution of these United States, as the supreme law of the land, obligatory alike on all.

3. A revision and modification of the laws regulating immigration, and the settlement of immigrants, allowing to the honest immigrant who, from love of liberty or hatred of oppression, seeks an asylum in the United States, the protection of our flag and our laws. But unqualified opposition to the transmission to our shores of criminals and paupers.

4. A radical change of our Naturalization Laws.

5. The support for political stations—executive, legislative, judicial or diplomatic—of those only who do not hold civil allegiance, directly or indirectly, to any foreign power, whether civil or ecclesiastical, and who are Americans by birth, or by thorough education and training;—thus fulfilling the maxim, "AMERICANS OUT SHALL GOVERN AMERICA." The protection of all persons in the legal and proper exercise of their civil rights and privileges; the maintenance of the right of every man to the full, unrestrained and peaceful enjoyment of his own religious opinions and worship.

6. The education of the youth of our country in schools provided by the State, which schools shall be common to all, without distinction of creed or party, and free from any influence or direction of a denominational or partisan character. And inasmuch as Christianity, by the constitutions of nearly all the States, and by the consent of the people of America, is considered an element of our political system, and as the Holy Bible is at once the source of Christianity, and the depository and fountain of all civil and religious freedom, we oppose every attempt to exclude it from the schools thus established in the States.

7. We advocate Protection to American industry and genius, against the adverse policy of foreign nations; also, facilities to internal and external commerce, by the improvement of rivers and harbors.

8. The unconditional restoration of that time-honored prohibition known as the Missouri Compromise, which was destroyed in utter disregard of the popular will; a wrong which no lapse of time can palliate, and no plea for its continuance can justify. And that we will use all constitutional means to maintain the positive guarantee of that compact, until the object for which it was enacted has been consummated by the admission of Kansas and Nebraska as Free States.

9. That Connecticut will never consent to the extension of Slavery over the common domain of the United States; but on the contrary, believing that the free institutions, which an experience almost coeval with the life of the Republic, has proved to be good for her, are, and will be good for all future commonwealths, she will strive to the best of her ability, to exclude the relation of human bondage from the national Territories.

10. That it is the duty of the General Government to protect, even by armed intervention, if necessary, the people of the territories in the exercise of the right of suffrage, and that the National Administration which neglects to perform this duty is recreant alike to the Constitution and the best interests of the Union.

11. The union of these States should be made perpetual by a faithful adherence to the principles embodied in the Declaration of Independence, and confirmed by the Constitution.

12. All the principles of the Order to be henceforth everywhere openly avowed; each member shall be at liberty to make known the existence of the Order, and the fact that he himself is a member.

The Committee on National Politics reported in favor of holding a National Convention of the Order some time in the Summer months of 1856, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Presidency. The report was received and adopted. The report was in the form of a resolution, and was spoken to by Hon. AUSTIN BALDWIN, of Middletown; L. G. FOX, of New-Haven, and O. S. FERRY, of Norwalk. They were all in favor of the spirit of the resolution, and differed only on some immaterial points.

The other Committees, in consequence of a desire on the part of the delegates to attend the mass meetings, deferred making their reports until to-morrow morning, to which time the Council adjourned.

PUBLIC MEETING AT BREWSTER'S HALL.

At 7 o'clock, several hundred persons had congregated in Brewster's Hall, for the purpose of listening to speeches from the distinguished gentlemen of the American Order from abroad, known to be present in the City. Soon after 7, Hon. M. D. EVERRY came forward, and proposed Officers for the meeting. They were chosen as follows:

PRESIDENT.

HON. HENRY PECK.

VICE PRESIDENTS.

Chauncey Jerome,	Henry Trowbridge,
Lucius G. Peck,	Harry Prescott,
Wales French,	Philander B. Hine,
Evenger Alliny,	S. W. Knevals.
James F. Burk,

SECRETARIES.

Benj. Noyes,	David Burrill,
J. W. T. Hamilton,	R. J. Benedict.

Soon after the organization was complete, the table was crammed by enthusiastic Members of the Order. The galleries and stairways were filled, and crowds were standing outside the door unable to gain admittance.

One of the bands of the city was in attendance, and just previous to the introduction of Mr. WELSH, as the first speaker, they played a patriot air, which "brought down the house."

On coming forward Mr. WELSH was received with applause, and he proceeded immediately to speak on the basis of the action of the State Council during the day, a report of which you have already.

When he concluded, Mr. NOYES, one of the Secretaries, was called upon, and read the Platform adopted by the State Council, which is also in your report of the secret meeting. As soon as read, it was ratified by the mass meeting unanimously and with cheers.

SPEECH OF HON. ERASTUS BROOKS.

The President then introduced Hon. ERASTUS BROOKS, of your City. Mr. BROOKS made the speech of the evening. He was careful not to touch on the subject of Slavery, and thus avoided any expression of sentiment other than the meeting could receive with favor. He claimed as endorsers of the American idea, as now given out by the American order, all the great men of the country, from WASHINGTON down to, and including, MARTIN VAN BUREN, and in its defence combated the prejudices of foreigners in America, by proof that they, as liberal men in their own lands, had applauded the same idea. He quoted from the speech of DANIEL O'CONNELL, delivered on Dublin Green, that portion in which he said, "Ireland for Irishmen, France for Frenchmen," and with good effect. Mr. BROOKS added, "and we claim America for Americans."

Mr. BROOKS was followed by Mr. SIDNEY DEAN, who made a goo dspeech, but said nothing new.

SPEECH OF MR. KELLOGG.

Mr. DEAN was followed by Mr. KELLOGG, who made a most effective address. He dwelt at great length upon the foul wrong done to the North by the repeal of the Missouri Compromise; denounced as a wrong the arrangement by which a man, holding slaves in South Carolina, was enabled to cast votes for that which he himself claimed to be a chattel; and congratulated the American Order in New-England, that it held, as one of its prominent principles, opposition to the encroachments of Slavery.

There were other speakers, but owing to the lateness of the hour I am unable to get any report of them through by telegraph.

The meeting was satisfactory in every respect to the leaders of the party, and the people seemed well pleased with the sentiments uttered.

The Secret Council meets again to-morrow, and I shall endeavor to furnish a full and fair report of what is doing. NOMOTOMEO.

"Invited to the cemetery of Brevet-Major R. A. Gaston, the founder of Fort Riley, a distinguished patriot and generous friend, a refined gentleman, a devoted husband and father, and an exemplary Christian."

I do not learn that valuable soldier has been appointed for the enlargement of the Fort, but as the money by the Superintendent of the Western Mail is appropriated by secret law DAVID THE MONEY is making in the outlays.

Dr. Simmons, who deserted his post during the late prevalence of the cholera, is now under arrest, and will soon be brought up for hasting before a court-martial.

Gov. Shannon's Speech at Westport—His Views on Slavery.

Our readers probably remember the speech Gov. SHANNON was reported to have made at Westport, Mo., on his way to Kansas, in which he declared himself in favor of the introduction of Slavery into the new Territory. The report was published in the Missouri Democrat and its accuracy was afterwards denied by Gov. SHANNON, in a letter in which he declined having discussed the subject of Slavery at all.

We find in a late number of the Democrat, a long letter from JAMES REDPATH, its reporter, asserting the fidelity of his report and giving a variety of testimony to sustain its accuracy. We copy the following on this subject from his letter:

From the Missouri Democrat.

TOPEKA, K. T., Wednesday, Oct. 24, 1855.

If the readers of the Democrat were my personal acquaintances, I would at once conclude my letter, and rest my defence on my simple denial of the Governor's statement. But in order to satisfy the large class of our readers who have no personal knowledge of my character for probity, I subjoin some additional testimony.

JUDGE SCHUYLER'S LETTER.

Judge SCHUYLER is one of the leading citizens of the Territory, and is universally respected both by personal friends and political opponents. He stated in a conversation at Kansas City with a gentleman of my acquaintance there, that he had been surprised at Gov. SHANNON's denial of his Pro-Slavery sentiments, and added that the Missouri Democrat's report was an accurate account of the speech. I heard of this remark too late to obtain an introduction to him, and a certificate, before he returned to Council City.

To-day he offered me the following letter, which he had intended to send you by post. I met him in Topeka Convention for the first time in my life:

TOPEKA, K. T., Oct. 20, 1855.

To the Editor of the Missouri Democrat:

SIR: I was greatly surprised on reading, incidentally in your paper a few days since, the letter of Gov. SHANNON to Mr. MEDWAY, of Ohio, in which he denies having discussed the subject of slavery in his "inaugural" speech, made at Westport, Mo., on his arrival in this country. The report of that speech, on this point, as published by you, is very nearly verbatim.

He stated, "there is another subject upon which he could speak. He hesitated and repeated, there is another subject upon which he could speak—Slavery. My course on this subject is not unknown to some of you. You have on your borders strife and tumult. There is a great commerce passing through your State, and so through Kansas to the Pacific States. This commerce now rivals the commerce of some of the European States. It is destined greatly to increase. It is important that this trade should be protected, and not disturbed by internal commotions; therefore, the necessity that the institutions of both States should agree. He thanked them for their kind attention to his disjointed remarks, made on the spur of the occasion. He had no intention of making an elaborate speech!"—bowed gracefully, and withdrew amid the loud applause of the meeting, who gave three cheers for Gov. SHANNON, at being right.

This speech I had the privilege of hearing, and the above I affirm to be very nearly the language used by His Honor, and that portion, "Therefore the necessity of the institutions of both States agreeing," to be the exact language. Yours truly,

PHILIP C. SCHUYLER.

MR. BAILEY'S CERTIFICATE.

TOPEKA, Oct. 24.

Mr. EDITOR: I heard Gov. SHANNON deliver his speech at Westport, Mo., and I have read Mr. REDPATH's report of it. It is almost verbatim as to his language, and is a truthful chronicle of his ideas.

JOHN DAILEY.

Mr. DAILEY is a citizen of Topeka.

Mr. MILLER, proprietor and editor of the Kansas Free State, published at Lawrence, stated to me about a week ago, that a gentleman, named Warren, I believe, who heard Gov. SHANNON's speech at Westport, gave him a report of it for publication, which agreed in every particular with the Democrat's account.

Hon. JAMES H. LANE informs me that Dr. BROONS, of Westport, now residing at Lecompton, related to him Gov. SHANNON's remarks on Slavery, and says that the Doctor's account was precisely similar to mine.

Hon. WILLIAM BARBER is a prominent member of the Kansas Legislature—a Councilor—a Pro-Slavery man, of course—and holds the important office of Brigadier-General of the Territorial Militia, to which he was unanimously elected in a joint session of both houses. He authorized me to say that I read him my report in manuscript, and he pronounced it correct. He has read it in the columns of the Democrat, also, and says that it is an accurate report of the speech.

Here is another Pro-Slavery witness:

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14.

I arrived in Westport as Gov. SHANNON was delivering his speech, and heard him make use of the words attributed to him by your "Kansas Reporter," that—

"As Missouri and Kansas were adjoining States, and as much of that immense commerce up the Missouri, which was already rivaling the commerce between the United States and some European countries, must necessarily lead to a great trade and perpetual intercourse between them, it would be well for their institutions to harmonize, as otherwise there would be continual quarrels and border feuds between them."

I noted this idea down at the time as the true sentiment propitiatory to the best interests of Kansas Territory. I did not hear the first part of the speech, but as much of it as I listened to is correctly reported in your paper. A. L. BOUNDS.

Mr. KING, who signs the subjoined certificate, is a relative, I believe, of Gov. SHANNON by marriage:

WESTPORT, MO., Oct. 15.

I was in the company of Mr. A. L. BOUNDS and heard Gov. SHANNON express himself as in the above certificate, and as reported by your Kansas correspondent. To-day I met Gov. SHANNON at Smith's Hotel and said to him that I understood that the Washington Union had denied what I had heard him say in regard to the institutions of Missouri and Kansas—that is, that they should harmonize. I asked him if I did not understand him correctly that he said the institutions of Missouri and Kansas should harmonize. He said, "You understood me aright. The denying of it is folly." I said to him that I was one of the border ruffians, and in favor of Slavery in Kansas. He then repeated that I had understood him aright. W. A. KING.

I read my report in manuscript to Mr. ROBERT MILLER, Indian Agent, in coming down the river with him. In my introductory remarks I called the Governor a doughface, which Mr. MILLER indignantly asserted to be an undeserved epithet, as Mr. SHANNON had been a Pro-Slavery man. He said he had long known the Governor in Ohio, and he had always been S. G. Q. I struck out the phrase and substituted another. He did not, of course, approve my introductory remarks, but on my asking him if the sketch of the Governor's remarks was correct, he suggested a verbal alteration which I made, and said it was, the last sentence excepted, which he thought the Governor implied rather than asserted. I have not seen Mr. MILLER since I know that the Governor had denied the accuracy of my report, and would not have asked a certificate if I had, as it might place him in an embarrassing position with the Executive.

Mr. PARROTT, of Leavenworth, a gentleman of distinguished legal acquirement and social position, informed me that he called on Governor SHANNON in company with Judge JOHNSON, and asked him whether he had expressed himself as reported, as to the necessity of the institutions of Kansas and Missouri harmonizing. "No," replied the Governor, "not exactly as reported, I said"—he then gave a paraphrase, which Mr. PARROTT suggested to him meant precisely the same thing.

The Governor rejoined, rather non-plussed by this suggestion, I suppose, that my account was not verbally correct; which, of course, as it was a sketch, not a verbatim report, I never pretended that it was.

Mr. PARROTT says also, that Mr. MILLER, of the Frontier News, stated to him that Governor SHANNON had declared himself a sound Pro-Slavery man.

I might easily have obtained additional evidence, but my time was too limited to permit me to collect it. JAMES REDPATH.

Secret Political Organization—Ritual of the New Order.

Our readers probably remember the revelation by one PAT LAFFERTY, of an alleged secret organization, the object of which was to resist by force of arms the introduction of Slavery into the Territory. The St. Louis Republican publishes what purports to be, and probably is, the ritual of this new Order, which styles itself the Grand Encampment and Regiments of the Knights Legion. The Order was a military organization, and its objects are stated in the following account of the process of INITIATION.

[The member proposing a friend for membership, shall announce him when in readiness; and at the proper time, the Aid shall present him to the Colonel, and then address him:]

Worthy Colonel, the candidate presented and vouched for to be true in readiness for enlistment in our Army.

Colonel.—The Aid will present the candidate to the Quartermaster, (thus addressing him:)

As Quartermaster, I am directed by our Colonel to present you the person who is desirous of enlisting in our cause.

Quartermaster.—Sir, you have doubtless been informed of the general design of the institution, to which you now seek admission. Permit me, however, in candidity, to state to you more fully those principles that you may more clearly understand what you are to expect. You will be required first—to take an obligation, or oath, by holding up your right hand and repeating after me; when I pronounce my name you pronounce yours.

OBLIGATION.

"I, ——, solemnly swear on my honor, as a man, that I will never reveal, or cause to be revealed, in any manner, or to any person, the fact that I have been an applicant for admission to this institution, or anything which has or may hereafter be communicated to me, or the names of the persons present—all this I promise."

QUARTERMASTER.—This institution is temporary and local in its character and nature. It is designed for the Territory of Kansas, and is to continue at least until the vote shall have settled the question as to whether Kansas shall be a Free or a Slave State. The requirements of this institution will not interfere with rights of conscience, or the duties you owe to yourselves, your families, your country or your God. They will conflict with no law of the land. We seek, in a noble, honorable, and just manner, to accomplish two things. First: To secure to Kansas the blessing and prosperity of being a Free State; and, second, to protect the ballot-box from the baneful touch of unprincipled men. Such are our principles. Do you still desire admission?

CANDIDATE.—I do.

QUARTERMASTER.—You will then enroll your name in full upon this book, after which the Aid will conduct you to the Colonel for further instructions.

AID.—Worthy Colonel, I am directed to present this person to you for instructions.

COLONEL.—Sir, it is with joy we welcome you to this place, to these scenes, and to this sacred alliance. We trust you will find in us that purity of purpose, and we will find in you such nobleness and truth, that this union may result in constantly increasing regard, confidence and love between us. This country is yours by adoption, and as belonging to you and your children, you feel a deep interest in its prosperity, its honor, and its destiny. We are here, where Slavery intends making its next innovation; already we have had a foretaste of its contaminating touch, and knowing that strength lies in union—feeling that our country and our God demands of us in this emergency that every man should do his duty, we have banded ourselves together by solemn bonds, in order that we may know our own strength—may act in concert throughout this whole Territory, and thus exert an influence, possess an efficiency, and enjoy personal and civil protection, which as mere individuals we could not obtain. With these explanations upon our part, we shall ask of you that you take with us an obligation placing yourself in the same attitude as before.

OBLIGATION.

"I, ——, in the most solemn manner, here in the presence of Heaven and these witnesses, bind myself that I will never reveal, nor cause to be revealed, either by word, look, or sign, by writing, printing, engraving, painting, or in any manner whatsoever, anything pertaining to this institution, save to persons duly qualified to receive the same. I will never reveal the name of this organization, the place of meeting, the fact that any person is a member of the same, or even the existence of the organization, except to persons legally qualified to receive the same.

Should I at any time withdraw, or be suspended or expelled from this organization, I will keep this obligation to the end of my life. If any books, papers or moneys belonging to this organization be entrusted to my care or keeping, I will faithfully and completely deliver up the same to my successor in office, or any one legally authorized to receive them. I will never knowingly propose a person for membership in this Order, who is not in favor of making Kansas a free State, and whom I feel satisfied will exert his entire influence to bring about this result. I will support my brethren, and aid them in any lawful movement made by the organization to secure this great end, which will not conflict with the laws of the country and the Constitution of the United States. I will unflinchingly vote for and support the candidates nominated by this organization, in preference to any and all others.

To all of this I do solemnly swear, on the most solemn promise and affirm, binding myself, under the penalty of being expelled from this organization, of having my name published in the several Territorial Encampments as a perjurer before heaven and a traitor to my country—of passing through life scorned and reviled by man, frowned on by darling friends and angels and abandoned by God.

Colonel.—Gentlemen, you have enlisted in a noble army—battling in a glorious cause. For thirty-three years this soil has been to us considered free. We live in Kansas. We love her hills, her prairies, her streams, and her skies. We wish to build her up a noble State. Believing that Slavery makes ignorant men and ignorant States, for ourselves and our children we desire such encatchment as will insure to us intelligent laws, a public policy, and an educated people. We believe that slavery spreads immorality and licentiousness through the communities where it exists, and wish for ourselves, for our wives, and for our children, to live in a land where no class of people are by legal compulsion made the victims of the brutal passions of another class. We wish, and we expect to have here, a State where the right of opinion shall not insure persecution, and where freedom of speech shall not be a crime. In a word, if we make Kansas free, education, morality, religion, internal peace, and pecuniary success will be vastly increased among us. If treacherous or slothful to the duties devolving upon us, we bring a deep disgrace and moral anguish in our very midst, which will be more tormenting than the scorpion's sting.

There are signs by which members of this organization may know each other. [Colonel will give them to candidate.] There is also a grip. There is a certifying conversation and signals of distress. There are pass-words which none can communicate to you save the presiding officer, or upon his authority, and you cannot communicate them to another save to the Aid upon your examination. These pass-words are invariably given in a whisper.

Instructions on entering Regiments are these: At outer door—any alarm—here you will give the Sentinel the password; at inner door three raps—here you will give the Sentinel your name, No. of your Regiment, and explanation to the term pass-word. Salute the presiding officer both in your ingress and egress, by placing right hand on breast, and gently bowing.

CLOSING CEREMONY.

Colonel.—Fellow Soldiers, I trust this review has been both pleasant and profitable to all. We met as friends, let us part as brothers, remembering that we seek no wrong to any, and our bond of union in battling for the right, must tend to make us better men, better neighbors and better citizens. We thank you for your kindness and attention, and invite you all to be present at our next review, to be holden at ——, on —— next, at —— o'clock, P. M. Sentinels, you will open the doors, that our soldiers may retire pleasantly and in order.

MR. THACKERAY'S LECTURES.

GEORGE THE FOURTH.

The English habit of importing royal spouses is about as stupid as the custom of selling them at Smithfield, attributed to that nation by their lively French neighbors. A British sovereign cannot wed with a fair, healthy, modest Saxon maiden, because the consort of the British lion must be of a royal house, so the English Kings have to recruit their wives from petty little German duchies, and sometimes the royal conscripts don't turn out particularly good Queens. It must be very pleasant for those of the English people who can look ahead more than ten yards, to reflect on the great nationality of their royal race. The pinkish eyes, the flaxen hair, the chubby figures, the scrofulous blood of the reigning house of England are not particularly English. In the persons of the Queens and Princes there is a continual evidence before the people that their adored sovereigns are foreign to them in blood, if not in customs and sympathies. It does not matter much in a political point of view, this Teutonic possession of the throne—for as long as his Most Gracious Majesty, King Parliament, reigns, the people are safe from any sacrifice of their nationality to foreign proclivities—but one must occasionally wonder at this spectacle of a great nation ruled over by a race not of the soil, and speculate on the effect of its one day trying the experiment of a Saxon King.

The annals of the GEORGES furnish us with a pleasant commentary on the excellence of importing monarchs, free of duty. We have a pretty spectacle in this quartette of folly, tyranny, imbecility and vice. The four GEORGES were not, so to speak, each imported individually. Three of them had some claims on British sympathies. They were born on the soil, but like claret made from grapes grown in England, they did not sit well on the British stomach. They were second-hand foreigners.

Of all that German, drinking, immoral quatuor, the biggest, meanest, drunkenest and most immoral, was GEORGE the Fourth. Born Prince and Duke and Earl, with we know not how many titles beside, his cradle was rocked by Countesses and Duchesses, and Fears of the realm dry-nursed the imperial baby. Could the infant GEORGE, in those early days of pap and teething, for we must suppose that the royal child eat and grew like other children—could he in those times have possessed the faculty of self-approbation, which afterwards developed itself so perfectly, we doubt not but his fine laces, his baby clothes, his magnificent coral and bells would have pleased him mightily. We doubt not but that his nurse would have frequently found him with his best christening cap on his head, admiring himself before the glass. A good many years later, and a few days before his coronation, he was so anxious to realize the splendor of his own coming appearance at that ceremony, that he made one of his servants put on his wonderful coronation robes, and strut up and down the bedroom at Carlton House. When the day came, and the clothes were on the right man, we suspect that as far as the wearer was concerned, the change was not for the better.

GEORGE grew up to manhood, a handsome, portly prince. A man well-looking enough for an ordinary mortal, but for a prince extremely beautiful. Florizel, he was called—Prince Florizel. Pretty pastoral title, and monstrously suitable. Florizel that painted his cheeks when he was pale, and had amours, and when he was florid. Florizel, whose court was a princely rake's, where roared and fought the herd of princes and parasites—wolves in sheep's clothing. A pretty Shepherd Prince, piping Bloomsbury ditties under the windows of courtesans! His brothers were no be-ter. When Prince FLORIZEL met Perdita ROBINSON in Kew Gardens to pledge the eternal constancy of an hour to that deluded actress, who should keep watch over the chaste interview but the Bishop of OSNABURGH! A brother and a bishop! Never was intrigue, before or since, so favored by paternal solicitude and ecclesiastical counsel. He was a comical lover this FLORIZEL. When Mrs. FITZHERBERT repulsed him, and said, in the tone of a highwaywoman, "a marriage or your life," he tore his hair, and roared like a child who cannot have his moon, and swore that he would surrender his crown, sell his jewels, and fly with the object of his love to America. What a figure the great, fat, enervated FLORIZEL would have cut in our backwoods! How he would have astounded us poor, simple Republicans with his coats, and his undervests, and pink brocades!

There perhaps never was such a royal gulf as this royal GEORGE, for the absorption of a nation's money. He was a pecuniary Maelstrom. A chasm in the Forum into which the Curtiuses of the City had to throw, not themselves, but their purses. Unlike the Roman abyss, however, it never closed. His capacity for spending money was unparalleled. If he did not give a thousand pounds for a dish of nightingales' tongues, he spent it on a coat or breeches. The Parliament was continually granting, and he was as continually demanding. This splendid sovereign in petto had as many duns as a young officer in the Guards, or a writer for a comic paper. He owed a farrier £40,000, and he had enormous debts across the channel, for which his creditor was supposed to be PHILIPPE EGALITE. It was only because his papa promised to pay his debts that he agreed to marry CAROLINE of Brunswick. How much better for the sake of Christian morality that the debts had not been paid, and that—if such things were permitted—the royal swindler had gone to prison. There were better men than him in the Fleet just then, and that most terrible of royal marriages would have been spared the English people.

Mr. THACKERAY relates, in his lecture, the anecdote of GEORGE's calling for a glass of brandy after he had embraced his bride on her arrival. He does not, however, relate the extenuating circumstances, that, for a man whose life was devoted to dress and ablutions, and to perfuming his person, an embrace from a young lady whose aversion to clean linen and the bath was notorious, was at least trying to the nerves. From what Lord MALMESBURY tells us of the young CAROLINE, while in Hanover, we really cannot blame the Regent for his perhaps involuntary desire.

MALMESBURY went over after the betrothal to Germany, to tame this wild young filly of a princess, who made epigrams and wore dirty stockings. The stately nobleman found himself in a quandary with this volatile Brunswicker. He peered gravely at the edges of her under-skirts, and saw that they had not been changed for weeks. He beheld with horror that her stockings were of coarse thread, and seldom removed. He entertained the most frightful suspicions relative to the intermission of soap and water. His doubts and fears, as he tells them himself, are very amusing. How to speak on such delicate matters to this royal lady! How convey to a princess the intimation that he thought washing would improve her? In his distress he had to make use of a female ambassador, and a lady of CAROLINE's suite had to implore of her to change her stockings.

Drilled by Lord MALMESBURY, our wild young Princess comes over to England and sees her husband. In the first interview all is decided. She finds him fat, and not so handsome as his portrait. He calls for a glass of brandy after the conjugal embrace.

Who shall paint the Iliad of matrimonial war that succeeds? What a black, heartless, plotting scoundrel does young Prince FLORIZEL turn out! Bad as CAROLINE was, and she was bad in mind, though, perhaps, innocent in deed, bad as she was with her clumsy German gambollings, and her epigrams à la Voltaire, and her course, shameless talk, she was better than the be-wigged, painted, puffy monarch, who called the first gentlemen in Europe, made it meritorious to be a blackguard by contrast. Take him as Mr. THACKERAY gives him. A wig; a coat; a waistcoat, an under vest, another under vest, a third under vest, and then—nothing! Nothing, Mr. THACKERAY? Nothing, you say? Do you call vice and meanness and hypocrisy and dishonesty and sensuality and all the bad thoughts and passions that devour villains' hearts, nothing? That man's bosom, which for the sake of an epigram, you would make a vacuum, was a Pandora's box, and all evil was shut up in it; and when death came to unlock it at the end, we are almost unchristian enough to say that we doubt if he found a grain of hope at the bottom.

His persecution of CAROLINE, for her trial was a persecution, in spite of her levities and coarse German ways, was unmanly and infamous, but not much worse in its way than his treatment of the rest of his friends or connections. He was fickle in everything but his hate. That he never forgave an insult, his enmity to poor BRUMMEL when he passed through Calais is a sufficient proof. That poor, faded, penniless, begging biscuit-loving beau hoped much from his quondam fat friend, now that he was King; but the fat friend remembered the taunt, and passed on leaving poor BRUMMEL desolate. He forsook all friends if they did not anticipate by forsaking him. SHERIDAN was cold when his bounty reached him. MOORE was too wise a little poet not to retreat in time. He perched for a moment on the brilliant table of Carlton House, fluttered his little wings, and piped his prettiest tune. Before the sun of his favor sank, however, he flew off with a twitter of indignation, and thenceforward attacked the Regent with beak and claw.

GEORGE's conduct to his poor daughter is not less infamous than his treatment of his wife. There is no picture in history more affecting than that meeting between CAROLINE and CHARLOTTE on Constitution Hill, to which Mr. THACKERAY did not allude. The poor alien mother deprived of her child, and yearning to touch the lips once more that she had kissed in infancy so often, sees her daughter's carriage driving between Hyde Park corner and Constitution Hill. She orders her coachman to pursue, and she overtakes her daughter. Then both lean out of the carriage windows, and their lips meet in the presence of a crowd of wondering and sympathizing spectators. What a commentary on the happiness of a throne! Jack, the blacksmith kisses his little ones when he has a mind to, and dandles them before the red fire of his smithy with grimy delight; CAROLINE, Queen of England, chases her daughter's carriage, and can find no other place to kiss those darling lips than through a chaise window in the public street.

Again, behold that pertinacious Queen, on foot at the doors of Westminster Abbey on the day of her husband's coronation, striving to gain admittance of the halberdiers. Door after door she tries; lowered halberds and bluff refusals are all that she meets. Heart-sick and humiliated, she has to get into her carriage and drive home, while the first gentleman of Europe comes along in his robes, wondering at the audacity of a city populace, who, instead of admiring this great male doll, will keep asking it where is it's wife?

We sympathize with Mr. THACKERAY in his indignation at the presence of this fat brute in history. His huge complacency spoils our temper. The toadyism that surrounded him stirs our bile. There is nothing that would gratify us more than to hear that in the age of pugilism in which he lived, some stalwart bargeman had given this modern Tiberius a pummeling. To feel that he had suffered pain and degradation would be positively delightful. To know that in the zenith of his beauty his eyes had been blacked, would be ineffable bliss.

We have given no sketch of Mr. THACKERAY's lecture. It left so little impression, that to give even the effects would be difficult. It was long, rambling, discursive, lit here and there by an epigram or a bit of hearty abuse, but entirely deficient in wholeness. His peroration about General WASHINGTON was what is called clap-trap. Educated Americans revere the memory of their hero far too much to patiently behold him used, as managers use blue fire, to create an effect as the curtain falls. All that Mr. THACKERAY said of WASHINGTON was good and true, but that was neither the time, place nor occasion to say it. Americans know very well that General WASHINGTON was a better man than GEORGE the Fourth; nor can he gain one jot in their estimation, no matter how artfully a comparison may be instituted. Mr. THACKERAY may rest assured that his lecture would be quite as successful without any such forced contrasts between characters that need never be contrasted.

Your Old Clothes.

Many of our readers must have stores of children's old clothes in their houses, which are of no use to themselves. To the little ragged shivering boys and girls of the City, they would be of immense good, at the approach of Winter. They would enable many to be clothed who cannot otherwise get to the schools, or be sent to places in the country. Who will remember the poor?

If the address be given to Mr. BERGH, of the Children's Aid Society, (Clinton Hall, Astor-place) he can send to any house in the City for such clothing.

The "Niagara."

The United States frigate Niagara, which GEORGE DRAKE is building at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, is in a forward state for launching, which event is expected to come off about Christmas. Messrs. PRATT & MURRAY, of the Fulton Iron Works, have commenced putting in her machinery.

REVOLUTIONARY PAPERS.

Unpublished Letters of Washington, Hamilton, Clinton, Lafayette, Gerry, Gates, Greene, Cornwallis, Rochambeau, Clarke, Washington, &c., &c.

If to be in public life means only, that your letters and most precious documents upon which you have prided yourself, shall slumber till they drop to pieces with age in a farmer's old garret, away in the backwoods,—if this is the end of patriotism, and history shows nothing on its page that you have done enough commemoration, which under the sun is the use of trying to be a great man?

The documents which have just been exhumed from the hidden depths of a Kingston hair-trunk, through the agency of Mr. BENSON J. LOSSING and another, furnish the Documentary History of this State with valuable material that has not yet seen the light, and which is presently likely to fall to pieces if it don't see light and find a preservative of its youth pretty speedily.

We have noted the fact of the discovery of these old papers, in reference to the late proceedings of the Historical Society. The titles only of the documents were furnished, but it was sufficiently indicated, even in that imperfect way, what their value is. Curiosity led us down to HARPER'S, where, in a snug and particularly cosy corner of a particularly snug and cosy room, rested the trunk—not "go blacks trunks" of City Hall memory, but a trunk which is certainly the prototype of all trunks,—a gigantic, hairy affair, a perfect Goliah of trunks, with Esau's hirsuteness. By it stood a young specimen, captured, as we were given to understand, at the Battle of Saratoga. The younger and more tender trunk bore the monogram of His Majesty—"G. R." But it was not with this trunk that our business lay. In fact, what right had a King's monogram so near a big trunk filled with the choicest Revolutionary relics? One almost expected to see the revolutionary manuscripts swell with indignation and burst the shell of their old trunk, to overwhelm King GEORGE and his monogram.

The attraction was powerful. Mr. LOSSING drew up a table, provided a bran-new ink-bottle, produced pens and paper, and we set resolutely to the work of overhauling, (by his leave, for which we thank him here,) at least ten thousand rusty pages of foolscap, bearing signatures which in themselves would command big prices, if JOHN RUSSIN only had the selling of them. The shell once cracked, we found some sweet old kernels inside, that were none the dryer for their long sleep of three-quarters of a century.

One copy of the TIMES is altogether too limited a space to contain, even if we were disposed to give the half of these odd, unpublished scraps of Revolutionary History. But it is no waste of time to pull up to the sunlight the truths that have been sunk for so many years at the bottom of that deep well—the old farmer's trunk.

Let us blow off the dust, smooth out the creases, and read them.

WASHINGTON ANNOUNCES PEACE.

A rusty sheet of foolscap, of orthodox size and ragged on the edge, is an autograph letter of WASHINGTON, addressed to Gov. GEORGE CLINTON, under date of March 21, 1783. It announces to the Governor the conclusion of the Peace. The signature stands out from the paper as freshly as if it were written, not seventy-two years ago, but yesterday.—"Go WASHINGTON." The letter is only of a dozen lines; it announces the fact that peace between the United States and Great Britain has been concluded—"on which glorious event," WASHINGTON writes:

"Permit me to congratulate you with the greatest sincerity."

The superscription must not be passed by. In the lower left-hand corner, in WASHINGTON's handwriting, in immense letters, is the word PRACE. The General added a flourish of the quill underneath, which we quite despair of representing by any possible arrangement of printing types. He was overjoyed. The frank reads "On public service."

At an auction sale in this City, a few days ago, an autograph letter of WASHINGTON, written wholly upon domestic matters, brought $30: in the same ratio, what is the value of this one?

LIVINGSTON—FLOYD—HAMILTON.

Directly beneath WASHINGTON's epistle to CLINTON is a letter from LIVINGSTON, inclosing communications from FLOYD and HAMILTON. These documents announce to the Governor that LAFAYETTE had dispatched a vessel from CADIZ to recall all the French "cruzers" (that is the old-fashioned way of spelling it) and privateers; and that the preliminaries of the Peace had been duly arranged. HAMILTON and FLOYD (original signatures) write as follows in reference to the event:

"We congratulate your Excellency and the Legislature on this happy consummation of our hopes. It only remains to provide for our internal tranquility, and by drawing the links of the Union closer to prevent these States from becoming the football of European politics.

We have the honor to be, with perfect respect, your Excellency's most obedient servants,

WM. FLOYD,
A. HAMILTON.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24, 1783.

These are extremely valuable documents, and are in excellent preservation.

THE CLINTON EMBARGO.

During the continuance of the War, Gov. CLINTON feared a scarcity of bread; so issued an embargo, forbade the export of flour and grain from the State, and enforced his decree to such a degree that he nearly starved out the Rhode Islanders, whose Governor (GREENE) sent him a long letter, under date of Warwick, Jan. 7, 1799,"—in which he says piteously:

"The necessary article of bread is so scarce in this State that a General Assembly have directed me to write to your Excellency, requesting that the embargo may be so far dispensed with as to permit flour and grain to be transported by land from your State for the sole purpose of feeding the inhabitants of this.

This State never produced bread-corn sufficient for the inhabitants thereof at the best of times, but always imported large quantities from yours and other Southern States. The enemy have been in possession of near one-third of the best plow-land in this State for more than two years," &c., &c.

"Your Excellency must be able to judge from what your own Inhabitants suffer, how hard the lot of those poor People must be when I inform you that Corn nor Flour cannot be purchased for Money at any Price whatever."

In a message dated at "Poughkeepsie, 30th January, 1779," Gov. CLINTON submitted GREENE's communication to the consideration of the Legislature; without comment, however. He was cold as an iceberg; starving Rhode Island men and women had no claims upon his sympathy. He was looking only to the interests of starving men, women and children at home. We cannot blame him very much.

AN EQUITY JUSTICE.

There are comical things, even in times of scarcity. While the Embargo was in full force, a Justice of the Peace, one LAWRENCE FORNA, at Claverack, found it necessary to guard the roads that led to and through that flourishing town, in order that no exportations might happen without the privity of the authorities. So he issued a certificate of appointment to a Constable, of which the following is a literal copy:

"This is Sertify that I the Subscribr Doe Nomenate and Appint Jacob Kline to Gard and Wach all the Rodes Leding from Clavarack to the Bay Government a Greeable to the Letter Directed to me from the Govener and Seze all the flower male or Grane that shall be attemted to be Exported in Violation of the imbargo set and order as many for a Gard as he thinkes Proper—and he Shall be Paid at A Resonable Lay by me given under my Hand this 28 Day of Octobr 1778.

Laurence fonda Justice."

The certificate is the worse of wear.

WHAT THE EARLY INHABITANTS SUFFERED.

The mass of petitions addressed to the Legislature by parties who suffered in mind, body or estate during the War, gives a curious picture of the condition of the frontiers.

The Supervisors of Tryon County, in a long "Representation," sent to the Senate in '81, tell a grievous story. The County had suffered by the War to this extent, viz:

700 buildings burnt.
354 families who have abandoned their plantations and moved from the County.
613 persons deserted to the enemy.
165 persons killed.
121 persons prisoners with the enemy.
1,200 farms uncultivated in "consequence" of Incursions by, and Desertions to the Enemy.

SOCIETIES AS IT WAS.

Thirty-nine inhabitants of "the township of Rochester," CORNELIUS NEWKIRK, JOHN BROOKER & al., petition, under date of Feb. 11, 1779, to be protected from the incursions of savages. Their petition, "humbly sheweth:"

"That we, your Excellency's petitioners, are situated upon the western frontiers of this State; that we are from our situation exposed to the incursions of a cruel and subtle enemy, who, whenever they pleases, can take any of us, our wives, our children, or any other inhabitants of this State, prisoners, or destroy them at their pleasure. Notwithstanding, we have been, and are, ready to do our duty, yet we have been, and are, in a manner, deserted by our Brethren, and left to the mercy of the Indians, and yet we are called upon, even at this time, to furnish men for the Service of Connecticut, but we think it hard, that your Excellency's disposition to alienate us (as far as Circumstances will admit) the Countrymen and Expunge the well-founded hope of all those over whom your Excellency rules."

A widow, whose husband is suffering in the enemy, prays for relief.

A fellow whose patriotism "languished under" in the day of woe—that is to say, a traitor to the enemy—prays, after the Peace, that the Legislature will "do that which is Meet" toward him. He wanted to be reinstated.

Negroes came up occasionally. In 1779 the Senate Journals record the presentation of a petition from Mrs. CASSARINE RAMPS,

"the wife of ANDREW RAMPS, of Hackensack, setting forth that her husband, contrary to her inclination, is going over to the enemy; and praying that the Commissioners of Sequestration may be directed not to sell the negro children to any person, and that she may be admitted to hold the like Bear Farm, or grant her such other relief as may be thought proper, was received and read."

A party petitions for the privilege of settling on the borders of Lake Ontario.

A Mr. EPHRAIM DARBY begs "his Brethren" pardon for the "freedom he has taken," but wants to go to "Pennsylvania,"—or has come from there, we don't remember which. No matter.

There was an Orange County dispute, which brought down an avalanche of petitions. It related to the boundary between "Cheesecocks" and Wawayanda. Cheesecocks is now Warwarsing, and survives.

A man has a desire to populate the Orange County District. This was in May, '81.

A gentleman who never knew Wawarsing, thinks much in a big petition of his "Services"—meaning, we suppose, his character.

AN OLD BANK.

In February, 1786, Richard Varick, Lewis Morris, Nicholas Bayard, Peter R. Livingston, Robert G. Livingston, and other old-fashioned Knickerbockers, united in a petition to the Legislature for the establishment of "a bank" in this City.

MORE SOCIETIES AS IT WAS.

A recommendation of Mr. JACOB MORRIS to be a Vendue Master or Auctioneer in this City, bears the original signatures of EDWARD BURNS, ISAAC SEARS, B. B. LIVINGSTON, EBENEZER BURNS, ANTHONY LEFFERTS, JOHN ADAMS, "LEONARD LEFFERTS, testator," and LEONARD LEFFERTS, Jr. The date is '83.

MATRIMONY.

Old CHEESECOCKS COLLIN was the very "B. M." of those days. His hobby was Navigation and Internal Improvements. There is a great heap of petitions, suggestions, memorials, documents big, documents little, illustrative expositions, page upon page of foolscap—all from CHEESECOCKS COLLIN, and all on Navigation and Internal Improvements.

CHEESECOCKS, after all, was a sensible man. His suggestions were, some of them, admirable, and had he lived to this day, his heart would have been rejoiced at the fulfillment of many of his day-dreams. In November, '84—exactly seventy-one years ago this month—COLLIN addressed the Assembly in four pages of cap paper, upon the practicability of making the Mohawk River navigable, and he asks also for the privilege of removing "the Rocks in the Cohoes." COLLIN was an active man. There were few newspapers in those days into which he might pour his missiles,—so he poured down his shot at intervals upon the defenceless head of the Legislature. And here his efforts have been bottled up in the farmer's trunk these seventy years or more.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE IN '87.

"The Regents of the University make report of Columbia College in 1787, that it had three Professors and forty students. Dr. SAMUEL JOHNSON was President.

LADY STIRLING'S SIGNATURE

Is attached to a memorial to the Legislature in relation to the property of her husband, WILLIAM, Earl of Sterling—a Major-General in the service of the United States. This memorial bears the signature of "SARAH, Countess of Sterling; WILLIAM BOND, and CATHERINE, his wife."

GERRITSEN.

One document bears the names of ALEXANDER HAMILTON and AARON BURR together. It is a report from the Regents of the University.

A few old pamphlets are curious relics of printing. One, published on brown paper, in New-York, 1786, by S. & J. LOUDON, "given to the public gratis," is a dull affair, entitled:

"The Commercial Conduct of the United States of America Considered, and the True Interest thereof attempted to be shown by a Citizen of New-York."

One brown volume, (small 8vo, pp. 285,) contains the Laws of New-York "exclusive of the Acts commonly called the Revised Acts," printed in Albany in 1801, by LOZIER ANDERSON, "Printer to the State."

But there will be no end to this ramble; so we stop short just here. It is proposed to offer these documents to the State at a fair valuation. Their importance as a part of our state history can hardly be exaggerated. There are many papers that have never seen the light, which are fast going to decay, and of which no other copies exist. It is a most serious fact that they have remained hidden for so long a period. Some action will probably be taken for the purpose of insuring their preservation, during the approaching Session of the Legislature. A Committee, consisting of Mr. GEORGE BANCROFT, Judge Campbell, Mr. J. ROMEYN BRODHEAD, and Mr. BENSON J. LOSSING, is charged with the examination of the papers, for the purpose of preparing a report upon them for the archives of the New-York Historical Society. Meanwhile, the rusty papers rest in their rusty case still, in the fire-proof building of the HARPERS—safer, by many degrees, than they could have been in the garret of the sturdy old farmer just back of Kingston.

Female Assistance Society.

The New-York Female Assistance Society, for the relief and religious instruction of the sick poor, (with its auxiliary, the Dorcas Society,) held its forty-second annual meeting yesterday morning, in the Consistory Room of the Dutch Church, corner of Lafayette-place, in Fourth-street. There was a good attendance of the lady members and friends of this uncontaminated charity, and, after the reading of the annual report, Rev. Dr. VERMILYE delivered an able and interesting address. The annual expenditure for the past year has been no less than $9,811 43, and the income $8,884, leaving a balance of $927 43 in the hands of the Treasurer.

The prospects of the Society have been favorable during the past year, and the amount of unobtrusive good that it has effected, as well for the spiritual as for the temporal wants of the children of mis

THE BURNED OFFENDER.

CASE OF JUDGE STUART.

THIRD PROCEEDING.

Testimony of a Police Justice, of the District Attorney, and of the Clerk of the Court of Sessions.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER—Present Before Hon. Judge Rosevelt.

The case of Judge Stuart was resumed to-day. The interest exhibited by the audience did not appear to have suffered any diminution. The publication of the proceedings of Monday induced to-day an attendance so large that the folding-doors of the Court-room had to be opened to accommodate the accumulating crowds who applied for admission. Notwithstanding this vast accession to the number of the merely curious the utmost order and decorum were preserved throughout the entire proceedings. The defendant was seated in the immediate vicinity of his counsel; he did not manifest much active anxiety, but he seemed dull and careworn.

Q.—Is his name signed to the jurat in his handwriting? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—In whose handwriting are those erasures in the complaint? A.—They are mine, and were made at the time of taking the affidavit.

Q.—Whose handwriting is that indorsement? A.—It is all mine except the lead pencil and the memorandum of the filing of the Court.

Counsel—Look at that paper (paper handed up) and tell me what it is.

Witness—It is a recognizance to answer, or bail-bond.

Q.—In what case? A.—In the case of Wm. Cosgrove.

Mr. Brady objected to this line of examination.

Q.—In whose handwriting is that paper? A.—The face of the bond, with the exception of the signature, is in my handwriting.

Q.—You mean the filling up? A.—Yes.

Q.—Before whom was it taken? A.—Before Judge Stuart.

Q.—Do you see any part of that, if so what is it, that is in Judge Stuart's handwriting? A.—The latter part of the paper is in his handwriting—so much as relates to the value of the property connected with the security. The signature is in Judge Stuart's handwriting.

Mr. Cutting offered to read the papers proved by the witness.

Mr. Brady objected to the admission of each of these papers on the score of irrelevancy.

The Court ruled that as the accusation here was one against the defendant for receiving money during the pendancy of a legal proceeding, it was a matter of discretion with the prosecuting counsel whether he proved the pendency of the proceeding, or the act of bribery first. Exception taken.

Mr. Cutting then read all the papers proved by the witness, except Cosgrove's examination. He then proceeded with the examination.

Q.—Were you present at the time when the amount of bail was fixed, or not? A.—I do not recollect whether I was or not.

Q.—Were you present at the time the subject was discussed? A.—I think not.

Q.—Were you acquainted with an officer, at that time, who was named George Elder? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—What was his business? A.—I think he was attached to the Second District Court at that time, in which both Judge Stuart and Judge McGrath acted.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brady.—Q.—Judge McGrath is since deceased? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And there were two clerks, Murray and yourself, attached to that Court at that time? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did Judge Stuart take any part in these depositions farther than to swear the witnesses? A.—I believe not.

Q.—That was the usual course at that time? A.—Yes, Sir.

Mr. Brady here put in evidence the examination of Wm. Cosgrove, taken before Justice McGrath. He continued:

Q.—There was no warrant issued in this case for Cosgrove's arrest? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—He was taken into custody by Officer Tinsdale? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And I suppose he remained in prison till the 23d April, 1855, when these recognizances were filed? A.—Yes, Sir.

Re-examined by Mr. Cutting.—Q.—These affidavits are in your handwriting? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Who was present at the time they were taken? A.—I could not tell from recollection who was there beside the witness and myself; I am not sure whether it was taken in the large public office or in the private room; if it was taken in the public office Justice Stuart must have been present; if in the private room, he might or might not have been present, but very likely was not; he was either in the public or private office when he swore the witnesses.

To Mr. Brady.—The examinations were generally taken in the private room when this large room was crowded; that was generally the practice, and the affidavits were brought from the private room to the magistrate, and he signed them, as part of his current business.

EVIDENCE OF THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

The next witness called was A. Oakey Hall, District Attorney. He was examined as follows:

Q.—You are at present District Attorney for this City and county? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—You have been so since the 1st of January last? A.—Since the 1st of January last.

Q.—Were you, prior to the 1st of January last, connected with the office of District Attorney, in any, or what way? A.—I was Deputy District Attorney under Mr. Blunt, from the first January, 1851, till the third week in July, 1854.

HIS ACQUAINTANCE WITH JUDGE STUART.

Q.—Are you acquainted with Sidney H. Stuart? A.—I am.

Q.—When did that acquaintance commence? A.—I think about the time of, or prior to, Mr. Blunt's election in the Autumn of 1850.

Q.—And your official intercourse with him has existed how long? A.—About five years.

Q.—And during that time you have had official intercourse with him, advising him on various subjects? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—What official position did Judge Stuart hold on the first of January, 1855? A.—On the first of January he was seven, into office—I think I was present at the time—as Judge of this City.

Q.—He had been elected at the previous election in November? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—You were also a candidate at that time and [illegible]

[illegible]

Q.—Who was John? A.—By the word John I understood Mr. Sparks.

Q.—Who is he? A.—He is Deputy Clerk of Sessions; Mr. Stuart and I had been in the habit of calling him by his first name; he has been attached to the Court a long time; I then asked the name of the man for whom he wanted the nol. pros., and he gave me the name of Wm. Connolly.

Q.—Did you recognize the name of William Connolly? A.—I did not; I never heard it before.

Q.—Did you ask him when it was entered? A.—Not at that time. I took a piece of note paper and commenced to write; he had previously said the indictment had been found two or three days before; I took a piece of paper and wrote the words "nol. pros." I think, "in the case of Wm. Connolly;" I asked him in what month the indictment was filed, as they are filed monthly; he said May, 1855; I then read over the note to him; he said it might be May, 1855; I added the words, "or May '55," in the margin; I then gave the note to him, and he left the room with it.

Q.—That was between two and three in the afternoon? A.—As near as I can remember about two o'clock.

Q.—Did you ever see that note again? A.—I was shown it the next morning, and I have repeatedly seen it since.

Q.—Is that the note you wrote? (Paper produced.) A.—This is it. (Reads.)

"It may be May, 1855.

"By request of Judge Stuart. Let John Sparks write it and I will sign it. Yours, A. O. HALL."

Q.—When did you leave your office that day? A.—I left very shortly, I remember, and went over to my civil office, corner of Broadway and Park-place.

Q.—And did not return to the District Attorney's Office that afternoon? A.—I did not. I think I may have gone to the Law Library first; I have an impression that I did.

Q.—What occurred next morning in regard to this nolle prosequi? A.—I was shown the indictment against William Cosgrove and my note, by Mr. Vanderveort, the Clerk; the indictment was just as it is, only my signature was not then on the back of it.

Q.—On the following morning, was this indictment against Cosgrove brought to you, and by whom? A.—It was brought me by Mr. Vanderveort, the clerk.

Q.—With the note that you had written to Sparks? A.—It was then, as now, pinned to the indictment.

Q.—What occurred then? A.—After some time I signed my name on the minutes; I think I went to the clerk's office and looked at the minutes before I did so. (Minutes sent for.)

Q.—When this indictment against Cosgrove was brought to you by Mr. Vanderveort, did you recognize it as the indictment against Wm. Connolly?

Counsel for defence objected.

The Court intimated that it would be well not to ask questions involving conversations.

Mr. Cutting argued to show that, as Mr. Vanderveort came to the District Attorney to get him to enter a nolle prosequi, at Stuart's own request, the conversations on the occasion were a substantive part of the case.

Mr. Stoughton, for the defence, insisted that, if this question was to be admitted, evidence should first be given that Mr. Vanderveort acted in pursuance of Judge Stuart's request.

The Court overruled the objection, and decided that, as the question referred to a conversation, which was part of the res gestæ, it was therefore admissible. (Exception taken.)

Q.—On the following morning, then, the indictment, with the note attached, was brought to you by Mr. Vanderveort? A.—It was.

Counsel—State what transpired between yourself and Mr. Vanderveort, in reference to this note that you had delivered to Stuart, and the nolle prosequi referred to therein.

Objected to. Objection overruled and exception taken.

A.—He brought this indictment against Wm. Cosgrove and laid it on the table beside me where I was writing, saying, "Here is the indictment which you said Judge Stuart wanted nol. prossed yesterday." I told him he was mistaken; that that was not the indictment. He opened it; showed me the note pinned fast to it, as it is now; he detailed a conversation which had taken place between himself and Judge Stuart. A conversation had passed between Mr. Vanderveort and myself about Wm. Cosgrove; the discrepancy of name was referred to by myself and by Mr. Vanderveort, also, in connection with the interview he had had with the City Judge.

Q.—What was his application to you? A.—To comply with the terms of my note and sign an order for a nolle prosequi which had been written out; Mr. Vanderveort then either brought me the minutes of the Court, or I accompanied him to his office; very likely the latter; at any rate, I saw the minutes in regard to the Judge's order.

Q.—Are those the minutes which you saw on that occasion? (Minutes produced.) A.—Yes, Sir; I recognise it by the erasures, and my remembrance of the conversation which took place in regard to them.

Mr. Cutting offered the minutes in evidence.

Mr. Brady objected. He denied that there had been any judicial action by Judge Stuart in reference to this first indictment. A motion for nolle prosequi could only be made in open Court, and no entry in a private office could be considered as such, nor have the force of such a process.

Mr. Cutting contended at some length for the propriety of his offer.

Mr. Brady asked Mr. Hall if he ever moved a nolle prosequi in this case of Cosgrove's or Connolly's, in the Court of Sessions.

Mr. Brady said he had a right to cross-examine on any paper offered in evidence.

The Court seemed to coincide with him, but,

Mr. Cutting argued strenuously against the allowing of the question. He admitted that the Court was not in session when this order was entered, and that no such motion was made in open Court.

The Court admitted the minutes to show that such an entry had been made.

The admission of Mr. Cutting was accepted by the [illegible]

[illegible]

Exception was taken to the admission of the minutes.

Mr. Brady asked to cross-examine the District Attorney now, in order to show that no motion for a nolle prosequi was made in open Court.

The request was refused, objection made, and an exception taken.

Mr. Cutting read the minutes, as follows:

"The People against William Cosgrove, an indictment for burglary in the first degree. Filed April 18, 1855."

"February 20, 1856. By leave of the Court, the District Attorney enters a nolle prosequi in this indictment. Ordered, That the defendant be discharged therefrom.

Ordered, That all persons bound by recognizance to appear this day, &c., be severally continued in the same until to-morrow.

Court adjourns until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning."

Q.—When was the first that you saw of that entry in the minutes? A.—On the following morning—the 20th.

Q.—And there had been no motion whatever made by you on the 19th, either in Court or out of it, in the case of Wm. Cosgrove? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Had you known at any time on the 19th that such an entry as this was made? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was that indorsement on the indictment when Mr. Vanderveort showed it to you? A.—It was, but had not my signature. The entry was "nol. pros. entered by leave of Court, Feb. 19, 1855."

Q.—Did he ask you to sign that? A.—He did.

Q.—Did you sign it at first? A.—I refused at first. Mr. Stoughton objected to the question. Objection overruled.

Q.—Had you signed this indorsement on the back of it before you saw the minutes? (Objected to.) A.—No, Sir.

Q.—After you saw those minutes did you sign this indorsement? A.—I did.

Q.—What did you do with this indictment after you had signed it? A.—I delivered it to Mr. Vanderveort, and he took it into his possession.

Q.—When the indictment against Wm. Cosgrove was shown to you, did you recognize the name? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you recollect that indictment? A.—Very well.

Q.—Did you know at the time that Judge Stuart applied to you to nol. pros. the indictment against William Connolly, that Wm. Connolly and Wm. Cosgrove were one and the same person? A.—I did not, Sir.

Q.—Was Cosgrove a man known to the police?

Mr. Brady objected.

Q.—In your capacity of Deputy District Attorney and District Attorney, did you become familiar with the operations of the police in this City? A.—I did to a certain extent.

Q.—In your official capacity did you acquire a knowledge of the names of criminal offenders known to the officers of justice in this City?

Mr. Brady objected.

Mr. Cutting stated what he wanted to prove, and Mr. Brady withdrew his objection.

Witness continued—I may add that Cosgrove's name was known to me; I had had frequent conversations with Justice Stuart about Cosgrove, who was known to me by that name, previous to that time; those conversations were about his case and about his bail.

Counsel—State in substance what Judge Stuart said to you about Cosgrove's case, and his bail? A.—I do not remember the particulars of any such conversations. Judge Stuart was the original magistrate who sent the papers in Cosgrove's case to the office of the District Attorney.

Q.—Who is Cosgrove? A.—I have seen him but once, he was known to me previously as Buffalo Bill.

Q.—What did you know about his reputation?

Mr. Brady objected.

Q.—Did you at any time after this interview with Vanderveort, and after you had signed the order for a nol. pros. have an interview with Judge Stuart, and if so when? A.—I think it was the same day or the day after. It was shortly after. I am unable to state the date.

Q.—Where did that conversation take place? A.—It was the first meeting I had with Judge Stuart. I think I met him at the door of my office, as I was going into my office, and he into the clerk's. We conversed about what had occurred between him and myself at my office.

Counsel—State what was said.

I think I used the words that he had got Mr. Vanderveort and I into a scrape about William Cosgrove; I asked him why he had done as he did; he replied that he had done it at the request of a friend to Wm. Cosgrove; I spoke about the names being different—Connolly and Cosgrove; I told him that he had given me the name of Connolly, and had not spoken about Cosgrove; our conversation was very casual, and I think it stopped then; for my own reasons I did not speak much with him on the subject; I think I asked him if he had given away the certificate which the Clerk had furnished him—the certificate of the order on the minutes; I have an impression that he promised to get it for me, but, as I said before, our conversation was a very short one; he did not bring it back; I never had but one conversation with him about it; I rather avoided the subject.

Q.—When you said to him that he had only given you the name of Connolly, and not that of Cosgrove, did he give any explanation? A.—He did, but I don't remember it; his manner was not very clear.

Q.—Did you have any other conversation with him at any other time on this subject? A.—Once in the Court of Sessions. I think it was in the early part of this Summer. He asked me if the Philadelphia witness had returned in the Connolly case. I was not aware till then that he knew there had been a second indictment found against Connolly.

Q.—Did you procure a second indictment to be found against Connolly or Cosgrove?

Mr. Brady objected to any evidence in reference to the second indictment, the first one being still in existence.

The Court admitted the proof, and defence excepted.

The second indictment was produced and identified by witness. This indictment, he said, was found on the 16th March, 1855. The accused party was indicted in the second indictment under the name of William Connolly. That, I found on inquiry of Mr. Frinck, to be his real name.

Q.—How was that presented to the Grand Jury? A.—I cannot speak of my personal knowledge as to that. Mr. Vanderveort knows, probably. I know the instructions I gave.

Q.—The fact of the indictment was not made public by you? A.—I never spoke of it to any one but one of clerks of the Court.

Q.—A bench warrant was issued on that second indictment? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was Connolly taken up on that warrant? A.—He was not, so far as I know.

Q.—Was there a person named Mrs. Connolly who called subsequently to these transactions at your office? A.—Yes, there was.

Q.—When was it that Mrs. Connolly called at your office?

Mr. Brady objected.

The Court ruled that the fact that Mrs. Connolly visited the witness, could now be proved, but the conversation was inadmissible at this stage of the case.

Witness—one came there as Mrs. Cosgrove, and not as Mrs. Connolly; I knew when she said she was Mrs. Cosgrove that she was Mrs. Connolly; she came not to the office of the District Attorney, but to my private office at the corner of Broadway and Park-place.

CROSS-EXAMINED BY MR. BRADY.

Q.—I want to prove that there never was a nolle prosequi entered on that indictment. The piece of paper produced as your note was written on the 19th February? A.—On the 19th.

Q.—And that entry on the minutes was made on the 19th. Do you know who pinned that memorandum on to the indictment? A.—No.

Q.—Were you in the Court on the 19th February, at all? A.—I was not, nor on the following day.

Q.—And then you did not move for leave to enter a nolle prosequi in the Court of Sessions on either of those days? A.—I think that, as a lawyer, I did. I think when I wrote that note in presence of Judge Stuart, that I wrote it in what was virtually the Court.

Q.—I do not want to argue a law point with you here, because you are on the stand as a witness. Did you write that order in the Court room? A.—I did not write it in a Court room where a Judge was on the bench.

Q.—Nor in any room where a Judge was on the bench? A.—When I moved that nol. pros. Judge Stuart was standing up.

Q.—Being what? A.—I don't know that he was doing anything.

Q.—You did not move anything? A.—I think I did.

Q.—He came into your office and asked you to enter a nolle prosequi, and you wrote this paper? Mr. Cutting.—No; there was something more than that.

Mr. Brady.—I ask you whether that is not all you did on the 19th February? I am speaking of facts.

A.—All I did was to sign that paper.

Q.—In your private office and deliver it to Judge Stuart. That entry was made on the minutes before you signed this indorsement on the back of the indictment.—"Nolle prosequi entered by leave of Court, 19th Feb., 1855?" A.—It was.

Q.—And though that is dated 19th February, it was written on the 20th? On the 20th February, 1855, had you any conversation with Judge Stuart anywhere on the subject of this indictment? A.—I have stated already that I could not specify the date; it may have been the same day, or it may have been the day afterwards; but, at any rate, it was shortly afterwards.

Q.—And that was out of the Court? A.—Out of the Court.

Q.—So that you never asked in open Court for leave to enter a nol. pros. in this indictment? A.—Not in open Court, as you seem to understand it.

Q.—I am asking about the facts. There is no entry on the minutes made in regard to that case? A.—None.

Q.—And that was entered before you had given any consent to the entering of a nol. pros. in this case? A.—Any consent except that in the note.

Q.—And that you did not understand to be a consent, and did not intend it as such? A.—That was intended to be a nolle prosequi in the case of Wm. Connolly.

Q.—And you did not intend it as a nol. pros. in the indictment against Wm. Cosgrove? A.—I did not certainly.

Q.—And therefore when Mr. Vanderveort wrote that nol. pros. on the minutes, it was something you [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] A.—It was, sir.

Q.—Did you never give any consent except that in the note? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was this room adjoining the room assigned by ordinance for holding of the General Sessions? A.—I think I am aware of. There is an ordinance of the Common Council providing for the erection of this building for the Court of Sessions. We have had the Court of Sessions in this room; sometimes in one place and sometimes in another. We have had it in my office.

Q.—The whole of that February term was held in that Court? A.—Yes, the general term was held there.

Q.—You have no knowledge of the business which was transacted in that Court on the 19th February? A.—I have not.

Q.—You were represented there by Mr. Sedgwick? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he performed during all those days you were absent, the duty of District Attorney. A.—He did, Sir.

Q.—There seems to be an imputation here that you were deceived by Judge Stuart in the name he gave you when he called on you to get a nolle prosequi in an indictment against Wm. Connolly. If I understand, you had never heard of a man named Connolly being indicted? A.—I did not.

Q.—You did not know what crime he had been charged with? A.—I did not.

Q.—You never saw any paper in which his crimes were specified? A.—I did not.

Q.—And you acted entirely on the representations of Judge Stewart? A.—I did; I trusted implicitly to the Judge.

Q.—Did you ask him what crime he was charged with? A.—I may have done so; I don't remember; he left the impression on my mind that it was a light offence; I think the Judge said there was nothing in it, or something to that effect; I plead negligence in the matter.

Q.—To comply with the request in your note, Mr. Vanderveort would have to find some indictment against Connolly, of course that was to be nolle prosequi'd? A.—Yes.

Q.—On that day, the nineteenth, did Mr. Vanderveort call upon you? A.—Not to my personal knowledge; I am informed he did.

A.—I understood that when you made this indorsement on the indictment, it was in order to harmonize the records? A.—I did not say what I understood was the cause; I was not allowed to state it.

Q.—Was there anything to prevent your striking out the entry on the minutes? A.—Nothing but that the certified copy had gone forth.

Q.—Was there anything to prevent you from having the minutes amended immediately on application to the Court, so as to have that indictment stand? A.—I might have done that, undoubtedly, but I was guided by my own reasons not to do so.

Q.—I think you say you were certain you never heard of the name of Connolly before that? A.—I am very certain that I never did; I had heard of Cosgrove before, but I had not heard of him before his arrest; I did not know that he was the same person as Connolly; I supposed his name was Cosgrove; I made myself familiar with the facts in the case before the indictment was found against him; Alexander Johnson was the owner of the property stolen by him, and belonged, I think, to Philadelphia; he afterwards went to Europe, but during the Summer of 1854 I kept up a correspondence with him, or some one who knew of his movements; I did not know where Alexander Johnson was when this second indictment was found; if I had I would certainly have tried to find him; Mr. Monnot, the proprietor of the hotel, was in the country; there were two witnesses here (Carr and Tinsdale) when the second indictment was found; the second indictment was founded on the evidence of Carr and Tinsdale; Cosgrove has never been arrested on this second indictment; there has been a warrant issued against him, but it has been returned by the officer, at my request; Cosgrove, I understand, is now in another State; he was here once within the last month; I had a conversation with him at my house; his wife was with him and a man named Burtis, who went for them to another State; I do not know who suggested Burtis to me as a proper person to go there; I now think it was either Mr. Recorder Smith or his clerk; that was before the indictment was found against Stuart by the Grand Jury; Connolly, with his wife and Burtis, came to me by appointment made the afternoon before; they came from Boston; I found on questioning Connolly that he knew nothing about this case, and he went away next morning; Burtis was once indicted in Mr. McKeon's official term for receiving stolen goods, but I do not know that he has ever been in the State prison; that indictment is not yet disposed of; I don't know of any other against him; I have not seen Cosgrove since that time, and do not know that he has been in the City; Cosgrove had a protection from me for about two hours, while he was at my house; Mr. Cutting has it. This is it:

"For purposes of public justice I request any officer having process against Wm. Connolly alias Wm. Cosgrove, not to arrest or molest him. A. O. HALL,

District Attorney, City and County of New-York.

Oct. 8, 1855."

That was given to Mrs. Connolly in order to bring him to this City; no requisition has been applied for to the Governor to bring this man to trial; I have never asked one, because I did not know that it would be of any service. When the bail-piece was brought out, I cooperated with Mr. Frinck to have him arrested; and I told Mrs. Connolly when she called on me first, to bring him to this City and I would do my best to convict him; I have used Cosgrove at State's evidence, and it is not the intention to try him; Mrs. Connolly understands that he is never to be tried on this second indictment.

MRS. CONNOLLY IS OFFERED A QUID PRO QUO.

I told Mrs. Connolly that if she would tell the truth of her connection with Judge Stuart, her husband should not be tried on this second indictment. The reason was, that we did not think he could be tried on it, at any rate; that was on Oct. 1, the night before the interview at my house; the indictment against Stuart was found on the following Monday; the statement that if she told the truth of this matter Connolly would not be tried, was made before her husband came on from Boston.

Q.—When you told Stuart that he had brought you and Vandervoort into a scrape, did he make any explanation? A.—No, I thought he understood what it was by his answer; I asked him how he came to lead us into such a scrape—how he came to ask me to enter a nol. pros. in the case of William Cosgrove? he told me that it all the same that Cosgrove and Connolly were the same; I think he told me he thought I knew that Cosgrove's name was Wm. Connolly; I think I must have told him that I did not know it; I did not specify any particular injury that he had done to public justice by the act; I made the interview short for reasons of my own; I did not say one word at this conversation as to Judge Stuart and I having frequently talked about Cosgrove before; I do not remember that in the other conversations with him Stuart asked me if I was going to try Cosgrove; Stuart originated the inquiry as to the witness from Philadelphia; I do not think I made any answer to it; I turned the question off; I avoided talking with him on the subject; the Recorder was cognizant of some part of these proceedings to bring on Connolly; he knew when Burtis was sent on that this indictment against Stuart was going to be found, but he took no part in the finding of the indictment; he had been Cosgrove's counsel, and it was for that reason I applied to him for a man to go to Boston. Burtis was an intimate of Connolly's, and knew his associates; he wanted Connolly brought on; if Stuart was tried, Connolly would be discharged. There was an interview with these parties in the Recorder's office or room the day before they were in my house; that was the day that the Grand Jury was impanneled; Mrs. Connolly and Burtis were there; there were no others, except the Recorder and myself. Burtis had been employed by me, as I had employed many others, to find her out. It was in the week before that that the indictment had been set on foot by me against Stuart; I had seen Mrs. Connolly in the Summer before at my office; she left the office of the Recorder, and Burtis with her, to reach the Boston cars. The information on which Connolly was brought to this City was, that if he came and gave evidence, and Stuart should be tried, he would not be prosecuted; his wife was to communicate that to him. I suppose that Mr. Smith, the Recorder, is interested in this case; Cosgrove has never been subpœnaed in it; I have made him a State's evidence in regard to procuring other testimony in this, and other cases, also.

Recommined by Mr. Cutting.—Connolly was the person whose case Stuart said had nothing in it. You were asked on the cross-examination whether you might not have had the minutes amended, and you said you might, but you had some reason for not doing so.

Q.—Why did you not move to have the minutes amended?

Counsel for defence objected.

Mr. Cutting contended that his question was as to a point explanatory of the cross-examination.

Mr. Brady stated the grounds of his objection and the question was withdrawn.

Witness continued—I think I made a mistake as to the day this conversation occurred in the Recorder's office. I believe that conversation was held on Tuesday. That note (the protection) was written there on Tuesday, and was prepared by the Recorder and myself. Mrs. Connolly said he would not come on unless he were assured that he would not be arrested. I gave her that note in consequence, and she took it away with her. I don't know when it was surrendered. I think it was the next night, but it may have been afterwards.

To Mr. Brady.—That is the only paper of the kind ever was written. Cosgrove has no written protection now.

MR. VANDERVOORT CORROBORATES THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Henry Vanderveort, Clerk of the Court of General Sessions, in his direct examination, testified that he has been Clerk in that Court near fifteen years, and Deputy Clerk over twenty-five years; knows Judge Stuart personally; has been intimately acquainted with him for over ten years; first became acquainted with him when he (Judge S.) was appointed Clerk of Police by the Common Council in 1844; is acquainted with his writing; first saw this paper, signed "A. O. Hall," on the 19th February; I think I first saw it in the Court-room of General Sessions; HIS RECEIPT OF WHAT TRANSPIRED IN THE CLERK'S OFFICE.

The Character and Prospects of Walker.

[illegible] Mr. WALKER has been fighting and negotiating on his "own hook." Our information is that, while his character and designs have been much misunderstood even at home, particularly due former—the Government at Washington is wholly innocent of all concert and sympathy with him. It has no more to do with his alliance with the native opposition to the late Government or faction in power in Nicaragua, than Lord PALMERSTON himself. That he had no design to conquer the country in order to place it at the disposal of the United States, or to bring it under subjection, against the popular will of the people, to his own separate and arbitrary rule, ought to be sufficiently evident from his prompt refusal of the Presidency or Dictatorship. If it be not deemed so, from this fact alone, a brief reference to the personal character of the man will perhaps make it so.

Mr. WALKER is a native of Tennessee. His education is liberal to an extreme. Few young men, we understand, enjoyed finer advantages in this respect, than he did on coming to manhood. That he has not properly improved or legitimately directed them, in his subsequent career on the Pacific, is no fault of his personal habits, his lack of firmness, or want of political information. He is a lawyer by profession, and has had editorial experience at the press. His devotion to the Democratic principle of free government is extreme. On this point, faulty if you please, he has been stubborn and persevering, rather than enthusiastic. We understand, indeed, that enthusiasm, in the popular sense, is no part of his disposition. He is, or was, when he left the Atlantic States, and we have since heard nothing to the contrary, of a steady, sober habit, remarkably quiet in personal intercourse, of high moral courage and indomitable will. While nothing could have given his family, friends and acquaintances at home more surprise, than the first news of his turning filibuster in Lower California, there is not one of them who has since doubted his bravery, or questioned his perseverance in execution of a settled political purpose. Nor do they believe that his success, when achieved, will be turned to bloody account, as against humanity, or to the willful disturbance of the relations between friendly powers with which his movements have no necessary connection.

Mr. WALKER is a young man of only thirty-one years. If he is yet wanting in the elements of true wisdom as a politician, he is equally devoid of motive to desperation or recklessness as the successful invader of Nicaragua. Of the character of the material, in man, that he carried with him from San Francisco, and that which has since joined him from Sacramento, we are partially ignorant; though we incline to believe that he has the power and influence of complete control over them, and that, in any event, he will sacrifice his own life, sooner than see his followers, as a body, bring odium on the cause, or defeat the purposes which he has (unwisely it may be) asserted in Nicaragua.

Degenerate Anglo-Saxons Conquered by the Irish, &c.

Owing to some cause which we are quite unable to comprehend, there is an unquestionable and very palpable desire on the part of our French and English neighbors, with whom we had imagined we were on the best possible terms of national amity, to irritate us by depreciatory and insulting remarks. This disposition has so simultaneously developed itself in various quarters, that it seems like a concert movement which had been prompted by higher powers than those that gave vent to it; but we are unwilling to believe anything so absurd, and must, therefore, look upon it as an accidental outburst of a widely entertained sentiment. Our Paris correspondent has furnished our readers with the ridiculous tirade of that literary poodle the fat feuilletonist of the Débats, JULES JANIN, against the entire people of the United States, on the assumption that we could not relish the acting of RACHEL nor comprehend Corneille, because some of his own countrymen who had come over here to earn an honest living by cooking our dinners and teaching us the sublime art of dancing had requested the great actress to sing the "Marseillaise." RACHEL, of course, will tell JANIN a very different story when she gets back to Paris, but, in the meanwhile, the assumptions of Monsieur JANIN are adopted by the Journalists of London, and, in the Illustrated News, we find the matter of the Débats gravely repeated in another form. The Illustrated News is not an acknowledged authority in politics or the arts, but it has the largest circulation of any English journal, and is read in all parts of the world. Yet, it gravely informs its readers, without knowing anything at all about the matter, or even quoting M. JANIN as its authority, that:

"Brother Jonathan don't care about tragedies; he does not, and he says so, and he tells you why. (Excuse a parenthesis—Pourquoi ne-ce pas Mlle. Rachel est si maigre? Pourquoi elle ne se nourrit pas de Rosses.) True, it is Mlle. RACHEL's métier to play tragedy; but then, if she can do something that will amuse him more for his money, why, in the name of goodness, let her do it. The 'Marseillaise,' she can sing that; she sang it in '48 with a verve, and an expression, and a concentrated energy that made Paris shiver. Like the negro who, seeing his companion swallowing down the contents of a rum bottle with shudderings, contortions, and cries of 'Ochy! ochy!' snatched it from his grasp, exclaiming, 'Me cry 'Ochy! ochy!' too!' Brother Jonathan wants to be made to shiver as well; having got the fancy into his head, or let us say, that the changes of the political winds have rendered Mlle. RACHEL hoarse, he thinks that, with what he is willing to give her, if she pleases him, she may well afford to purchase any amount of pectoral lozenges. The 'Marseillaise,' therefore, he will have, or will know why; and it seems pretty certain that unless 'La Grande' makes up her mind to sing it, she will have to return to France considerably poorer than she left it."

By this time all Europe is persuaded that Brother Jonathan is incapable of appreciating RACHEL, and will listen to nothing but the "Marseillaise." The important matter in this, that we are told it is talked about and desired "in all the figures of all the theatres."

After JULES JANIN, comes the great thunderer of Printing House Square, and assumes, in [illegible]

[illegible] which the Times itself, and its war correspondents have been telling of the gross mismanagement and inefficiency of the English Commanders in the Crimea. And thereupon, continental of the pictures takes up the strain, and goes off in an explosion of dull platitudes in this wise:

"Whether the Anglo-Saxon character deteriorates in certain institutes, or whether the conquest of America, by means of the Irish, who have in great measure subdued the Yankee race, and are gradually making it conform to the principles and practices of its Celtic masters, is being avenged upon us, it is hard to say. But America can see nothing noble and chivalrous—but those are old-country ideas—can see nothing grand and enterprising in our championship of Turkey, and our fight for the freedom of the tideless sea. Our successes are scoffed at, our reverses magnified, and a barbarous tyrant is fulsomely flattered by those who claim a patent in free institutions. An American can stand up here and say that he is proud to claim ancestry from the country of SHAKESPEARE and MILTON, and NEWTON; but at his own board he drinks success to GORTSCHAKOFF, and OMER PACHA, and MOURAVIEFF."

No man, we imagine, could write such stuff as this without either believing it or being paid for it;—but we won't pretend to decide how the case may be with the Illustrated News. It is, certainly, very different from the ordinary style of that paper. We do not believe that such a sentiment as that of "success to GORTSCHAKOFF," &c., was ever uttered at any American table by any American. The same paper contains the following, which will be read in all parts of the world and be remembered, too, and be the cause of bad blood when Americans are encountered, and many a deadly quarrel may be engendered by such stupidities:

"It is now signified that, whether hired by Russian gold, or only prompted by a general taste for buccaneering, divers 'true Americans' are inclined to give us trouble, and that is necessary, in consequence, to increase our force in the Western Ocean."

Hired by Russian gold! And this is said by the organ of a people whose laboring masses we are supplying with food, and whose bank is looking to us for precious metals to fortify itself from the underhanded and insidious attempts of its ally to deplete it of gold.

Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart are all barking at us, and now comes in the yelping of a Colonial cur of meaner degree, who chimes in to the same tune. The Toronto Leader, our next door neighbor, as it were, who surely knows better, in humble imitation of Monsieur JANIN, says:

"We see with regret, but not with surprise, that Mr. THACKERAY has not been so successful in New-York as his admirers would wish. From all that we can see, crowds flock to hear him, and in a pecuniary sense, doubtless Mr. THACKERAY will have little cause to regret that for a second time he has crossed the Atlantic.

We should say that in New-York he is doomed to no more ovations; and that as other men of his own country have experienced, he will return to England quite disenchanted with the Great Republic.

We think the reasons of this change not difficult of solution. Possibly an American reader would accuse us of gross injustice and partiality. It may be that he would be right—but in our idea we think we hit the very centre of the bull's eye when we say, that there is really very little literary taste in the United States."

This must do for the present. We would like for our colonial neighbor to hear what Mr. THACKERAY himself has to say on the subject.

From Kansas.

Our Kansas correspondence brings us information of a new financial scheme into which some of the enterprising settlers of that territory have embarked. A lack of money is always one of the drawbacks of a new country: and it is not at all surprising that a section so rapidly settled, so remote from the commercial centres of the country, and where all movements, civil and social, have been pushed forward with so much haste, as Kansas, should feel this want in a very great degree. There are strong temptations for every new State to rush into crude and rash expedients for the purpose of supplying this want;—and the history of most of our new States contains instances of such proceedings.

In Kansas, however, the project seems to have been pushed with unusual boldness and disregard of the forms of law. Col. LANE, the President of the Free-State Convention, acting in his capacity as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Territory,—has issued scrip redeemable out of the "Treasury of the Commonwealth," and pledging the "faith of the State" for its payment. As Kansas is not yet a State:—as it has no treasury but that of the general government and the authority recognized by it:—as the Executive Committee is simply a body of men existing for political purposes,—not recognized by, nor responsible to, the law in any way, and having no more authority to speak for the Territory than any other persons within its limits;—and as the people of the State of Kansas, whenever Kansas shall become a State, will alone have the power to pledge its faith,—the proceeding is remarkable for its coolness and audacity. Our correspondent states that an Agent has been sent to the Eastern States to negotiate this scrip,—we presume at a very considerable discount. There is not one chance in ten that it will ever be worth a single cent on the dollar.

Our correspondence and exchanges from Kansas contain a variety of intelligence of considerable interest from that region. It is clear that events are hastening forward towards a crisis in that country with great rapidity.

By Telegraph to the New-York Daily Times.

DEPARTMENT WITHOUT WASHINGTON.

Our Relations with Great Britain.

THE CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Foreign Aspects of Foreign Affairs.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

The Administration has not the slightest evidence that the British fleet is intended to remain on this ground. All statements in relation to Central American matters regarding the Central American question are positively false. No demand was made for British acquiescence in our construction of the Clayton Treaty. Mr. MARCY simply insisted on Great Britain's fulfilling her construction definitely, which she had never done before. There has been no insolence on either side—nothing to prejudice an amicable arrangement, as the President's message will show.

Commodore PAULDING, commanding the Gulf Squadron, is here, summoned by the Secretary of the Navy, for consultation relative to Central American affairs. He will sail, as soon as possible, in the frigate Potomac, accompanied by the Cyane.

The sloop-of-war Saratoga, now lying at Sandy Hook, is bound to Port-au-Prince, to bring the schooner Amelia to New-York, for trial, on the charge of infraction of the Revenue laws, and probably also for a capital offence. S.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 12.

The Administration is in a high state of excitement regarding the coup d'état of PALMERSTON against the American Government. Nobody appears to understand it, and a thousand speculations are afloat as to the real causes and motives which have led to the dispatch of the formidable naval squadrons to our shores on which the London press is so vociferous. It is evident that the British public were taken as completely by surprise as our own, and that the uneasiness and apprehension among business men on that side of the water are even greater than here.

Commodore PAULDING was, on Saturday, summoned by telegraph, and has arrived. The Department is hurrying the preparations for the reinforcement of the home squadron as fast as possible, and a portion, if not the whole of it, will, undoubtedly, rendezvous at Graytown as soon as possible. The tranquillity of our capital has not been so much disturbed for a year, nay, indeed, for several years. The most stable-minded agree that the very extraordinary proceeding of the Palmerston Ministry has a very serious significancy, and though they cannot bring themselves to apprehend war, they admit that the episode wears a most portentous aspect. The common, almost universal, opinion may be thus expressed—the British Government cannot mean war, but what does it mean? The movement is a war movement, that is undeniable. The pretexts for it are most offensive and scandalous. They are disgraceful to the British Government, but notoriously false, and have been so treated by nearly the whole British press not in the pay of the ministry. The allegation that ships are in course of construction in our harbors for the Russian service, and that a hostile expedition is under preparation on the coast of Ireland are more impudent fabrications, manufactured as a cover to the real design.

That PALMERSTON is hostile to this country is well established by the records of previous negotiations. One of his first acts after the formation of the present ministry was to manifest his dislike of the United States, and to repudiate on behalf of the British Government the most important stipulations, binding upon it, of the Clayton and Bulwer treaty.—Still, it would seem incredible that he should desire war with the United States, and all reflection upon his course returns at last to the starting point of astonishment and doubt.

There are, it is true, a great many questions and subjects on which Great Britain may provoke and precipitate a war, if she desires it, and if she has really come to the conclusion that now is a good time to commence war with the United States, her Government may present quite a formidable list of differences. We have demanded the abrogation of the Danish Sound Dues; Great Britain may have formed a secret alliance with Denmark, to secure not only the continuance of the Sound Dues, but the possession of St. Thomas to Denmark.

The British Ministers and Consuls in the United States have lately been carrying on an organized system of fillibusterism within the United States against Russia. The Government has caught and punished some of the agents employed in this illegal work, and has requested the recall of Mr. CRAMPTON. The dispatch of these British war dogs may be in response to these demands. In this event our rejoinder undoubtedly will be the summary dismissal of Mr. CRAMPTON.

We have long sought to possess ourselves of Cuba and Porto Rico by purchase, or otherwise. Great Britain proposed a tripartite treaty between France, the United States and herself, for the perpetual guarantee of Cuba to Spain. We refused, but there is little doubt that immediately after that refusal a tripartite treaty between the other three of these Powers was formed, and now exists. In pursuance of this treaty, Spain may have required the sending of this fleet and the adoption of a menacing tone towards the United States. In return for this service, Spain may agree to send a Spanish force to aid the Allies in the Crimea—an object which has long been pursued by both the other Governments.

And finally, there is the long-protracted controversy of Central America, which proves to have been only complicated by the famous Clayton and Bulwer Treaty of April 19, 1850. The country was delighted with that peaceful conclusion, as it was regarded, of a difficult and threatening dispute; but subsequent revelations, and Mr. CLAYTON's own explanations, caused a complete change in public opinion respecting that treaty. A protocol was discovered unknown to CASS, DOUGLAS and MASON, unknown to the Senate and the country, unknown to anybody but Mr. KING and Mr. CLAYTON. This protocol rendered the treaty doubtful, depriving it of the clear and decided meaning which the words of the treaty on the face of the instrument conveyed. Explanations were called for. Mr. CLAYTON gave them, but showed that he knew no more than anybody else what the treaty meant.

Two years and a half ago, Mr. MARCY set about finding a meaning, or, if it had none, to procure the recognition of that fact, equivalent as he justly declared to the abolition of the treaty. ARMSTRONG and CARTHAGENA answered with fair words, implying by their conduct that they consented to the Americanization of Central America by the natural course of events. Not so PALMERSTON and CLAYTON. They have obstinately said nothing, waiting for something to turn up which should authorize them to speak decidedly and yet safely for Britain. Fortune has favored these diplomatic Micawbers. Something has turned up after many days. South Sebastopol is taken, and Russia is shut up in her shell. British and French shells have riddled her seaports, and the Hard shells, Soft Shells and Half Shells have riddled the American Administration. Now PALMERSTON speaks: he says that the treaty of 1850 has a meaning; that it is a British treaty only; that it inhibits them from nothing, certing prohibitions and obligations only on the United States; that Britain will continue to hold all the advantages she had in Central America, or has acquired since. And thus issue is joined. We say the treaty has been repudiated by Great Britain and is at an end,—and have served the Monroe Doctrine upon the Bay of Honduras Colony and [illegible] to a general notice to quit Central America and all its appurtenances. PALMERSTON says, in substance, he will stay and will continue there notwithstanding, which it was the design of the completed treaty to obviate.

Such is the position of the parties. Our Administration is in a situation to try all its nerve. It will now be seen whether it has the firmness to order PAULDING to protect Graytown from a British squadron, as it had the hardihood to order HOLLINS to battle down and burn a miserable hamlet of wooden houses and bamboo huts. True conservative statesmen will never forgive PIERCE for the Nebraska infamy, but true Americans are looking with eager eyes to see whether he will uphold the name and honor of the country against a foreign assailant.

AQUIDAY.

From Washington—Commodore Paulding—The British Fleet, &c.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Commodore PAULDING has been selected, being regarded by the Secretary of the Navy as a prudent officer, to visit San Juan de Nicaragua with his flagship Potomac. He was closeted with the Secretary this afternoon, relative to the course to be pursued by him in that quarter.

Notwithstanding the avowed innocent objects of the British Fleet just dispatched to the West Indies, the movement is regarded here with indignation, if not as an incipient step towards a hostile act, and hence, additional orders have been sent to the naval stations to-day by the Navy Department in reference to preparations.

Later from Mexico.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Nov. 12.

By the steamship Orleans, we have dates from Mexico to Nov. 6. ALVAREZ still retained the Presidency, and had fixed his residence at Tlispan.

Señor OCAMPO had resigned the Ministry of Foreign Relations, owing to a disagreement with Gen. CONCHEZOZ, Minister of War.

Large numbers of troops were pouring into Mexico, and a famine was feared.

Mail steamers signaled at Havana before sunset were to be allowed to enter the harbor during the night. It is said that the privilege granted to vessels bringing coal will soon cease.

The sugar market was dull, and buyers were demanding a reduction.

State Convention of Sabbath School Teachers.

BOSTON, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

A State Convention of Sabbath School Teachers of the several Evangelical denominations is in session here, and well attended. Addresses were made during the day and the evening, by Rev. Messrs. ADAMS, KIRK, VINTON, STAR and others.

Rev. Dr. ADAMS was chosen Chairman of the Committee to prepare an address on the subject of Sabbath Schools, and another Committee was appointed to organize the Association thoroughly for the purposes of diffusing information concerning the progress of Sabbath Schools throughout the State.

Destructive Fire at the Erie County Penitentiary.

BUFFALO, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

This morning, the workshop attached to the Erie County Penitentiary was destroyed by fire, together with a quantity of machinery and tools. It was used as a harness and buckle factory, under contract to Messrs. PRATT & LINCOLNWRTH, whose loss amounts to $14,000, of which $3,000 is covered by insurance. The damage to the building is about $3,000. No insurance.

Louisiana Election.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

It is now ascertained that R. C. WICKLIFFE, Democrat, is chosen Governor of Louisiana, and that the whole Democratic State ticket is also elected. The Congressional delegation will stand three Democrats and one American.

Later from Havana.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

The Yellow Fever at Portsmouth, Va.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

Several new cases of yellow fever and two deaths have occurred at Portsmouth, Virginia.

FRIGHTFUL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Two Persons Killed—An Entire Train Blown off the Track.

On Monday evening the Express train on the Harlem Railroad, which left Albany at 4¾ o'clock, reached Copake, when about midway between there and Boston Corners, was blown off the track by a violent gust of wind and precipitated down an embankment some thirty-five feet, performing a complete somerset, demolishing the cars and killing two persons instantly and injuring several others.

The Conductor, Mr. WEITZ, as soon as the accident occurred, sent the engine, which fortunately had not been thrown off, to Millerton for some cars, and the killed and injured were placed therein and brought to the City, where they arrived at about 5½ o'clock this morning.

The killed are, Mr. RATHBORE, a paper manufacturer at Boston Corners, and — GAYTOON, a brakeman on the train.

An accident of this kind has never before occurred on any railroad in this country.

The Superintendent, Mr. NOTTINGHAM, started this morning immediately for the scene of disaster. The cause of the accident, so far as we hear it, was entirely beyond the control of human agency.

The Board of County Canvassers.

The Board of Supervisors met on Monday in their capacity as County Canvassers, at the room of the Board of Aldermen—all of the Board were present except Alderman KELLY of the Fourteenth Ward.

Shortly after the time set for the session, (noon,) the Board was called to order, and organization was completed by the election of ISAAC O. BARNES, Esq., as President.

Mr. ANDREW L. JORDAN appeared on the part of the contestants, and announced to the Chair that a protest had been drawn up for presentation to the Board, protesting against the declaration by the County Canvassers, of the legality of the election of certain parties, whom he would not now name, but who he understood are declared to be elected by the returns handed in. That protest has been already completed, but he regretted the necessity of asking a delay before its presentation, as it had been sent for signature to one party making it. It was momentarily expected.

The County Clerk, RICHARD B. CORNELLY, Esq., announced that the blanks necessary for the legal progress of the labor of the Board had not yet been received in his office, but were every moment expected. He asked of the Board to delay the canvass for from 10 to 15 minutes.

Alderman VOORHIES objected to any delay made for the purpose of allowing any one to step in and postpone or render more intricate the labors of the Board.

Alderman BLY claimed that any proper and respectful protest should be received and should have fitting attention. Such protests might materially assist the Board in their duty, the determination of the result of the canvass. Moreover, as the blanks that the law requires are not ready to be furnished, the Board could not proceed any how.

Alderman WAKEMAN spoke at some length, taking a like view of the matter, and the Board thereupon adjourned to Wednesday, at noon.

Delaware County.

The returns from Delaware are not quite complete, but sufficiently so to assure us of the results. They elect:

HAYNOR, R. N., and HAYS, S., to the Assembly.

MOORE, R. N., for the Senate, has 100 majority; but BARNAY, Rep., is probably elected from this District.

KING has some 50 majority, in the County, over HEALSEY.

The County Clerk, CAMERON, Rep. and S., is elected; PATTON, R. N., is elected County Judge; and BURNHAM, R. N., is to be Sheriff.

GREAT CURE OF PILES.

Brooklyn, L. I., Nov. 1, 1855.

Dr. C. M. JACKSON—Dear Sir: I have to return you my sincere thanks for the great benefit received from your invaluable medicine, which, to say the least of it, has exceeded a trial of all other medicines that I have taken have entirely failed to do. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS being one of the most stubborn and aggravated cases of the kind, that perhaps ever fell to the lot of man, I feel it my bounden duty as an entire stranger to this person, to make this public acknowledgment, that the surprising cure that you have wrought in me, and the surrounding cures that your invaluable medicine has effected, have astounded all my friends and myself, as we had tried everything recommended, and nothing could do any good until I was prevailed upon to try your medicine. You are at liberty to make any use of this letter you may think fit, for the benefit of others, as I am well known in this city. Yours, THOMAS PEPPER.

THERE IS SOMETHING INDESCRIBABLY ELEGANT and attractive in one of KNOX'S Hats. Perhaps that Knox has a faculty of imparting to his hats some thing other hatters do not understand. Place one of Knox's hats on your head, and your appearance is improved to such an extent that you are conscious of the improvement while you at once become aware of the fact that you are delighted and your necessary intercourse is greatly facilitated. We can explain the latter cause by saying that Knox's hats cost but little, comparatively speaking, and that they last longer than anybody else's hats.

A CARD.—The undersigned passengers by the steamship Ericsson, on her late trip from Bremen to New-York, feel it their duty, before separating, to say, unsolicited, to the public, their opinion of the vessel. The boat having been the subject of much experiment, we recognize in our statement something more than an ordinary card, while the experience of most, and the profession of many, of the undersigned, will, they trust, give a weight to this not found in the stereotyped expressions of thanks now so common. The steamer Ericsson left Southampton on the evening of Oct. 19, after a very successful run from Bremen, and when two days out she encountered a succession of gales from the west to northwest, which continued with more or less violence for many days. Indeed, fifteen or twenty years' experience on the Atlantic scarcely affords a parallel to some of the weather met with during this time. Yet the vessel with entire ease to herself and comfort to her passengers, held her way steadily through these storms. The simplicity, compactness, strength, and beauty of her engines, taken in connection with her extraordinary economy of fuel, make a new feature in the science of steam navigation. The Ericsson is a safe, comfortable, beautiful, and probably one of the strongest steamers afloat. We feel, in this and that in Capt. Lowder and his officers we found all a passenger could wish, and we trust, after this success, this steamer will receive the support from the traveling community she so well merits.

WILL PUBLISH, NOV. 20,
CASTE:
A STORY OF REPUBLICAN EQUALITY,
BY SYDNEY A. STORY, JR.
In 1 large vol. 12mo. 448 pp. Price $1 25.
This powerful Anti-Slavery Novel will awaken the attention of the public to a New Phase of the Great Question of the Day.
To those who would be repelled by a tale of wrongs and atrocities, however true they might be, the Publishers desire to say that this is in the best sense a Novel—a love story, if the reader pleases—relating to the fortunes of persons belonging to the Privileged Class. The condition of the Southern Slave is not the theme of the book. It is true, the author has written with a purpose, but it does not lie upon the surface; and the reflective reader will find that its force falls quite as much upon Northern as upon Southern Society.
The Publishers do not wish to give any hint of the Unique Plot of this Novel; preferring that the thousands of readers should enjoy the pleasure of its surprises for themselves.

MODERN PILGRIMS:
Showing the Improvements in Travel, and the Newest Methods of Reaching the Celestial City.
BY GEORGE WOOD,
Author of "Peter Schlemihl in America."
In 2 vols. 12mo. Price $1 75.
The idea of this work was suggested to the author by the inimitable "Celestial Railroad" of HAWTHORNE. But in the application of the idea to the religious condition of modern times, the author is indebted to no one. It is a continuous story of the Pilgrimage of some cultivated and piously disposed people, in which they visit in turn various cities, castles and hotels, representing the leading religious denominations. But no description can do the work justice. It is full of trenchant satire upon life, manners and opinions; and at the same time it has much of pathos which cannot but awaken sympathy.
This work will make a sensation in the religious world. It is proper to add, that the author takes the same standpoint with houses Jonathan Edwards.

CROTCHETS AND QUAVERS.
LIBEL! LIBEL!! LIBEL!!!
From the New-York Herald, Nov. 13, 1853.
A CARD.—Book sellers, publishers and editors will please to take notice that legal proceedings are in process of preparation against the parties concerned in getting up a book entitled "Crotchets and Quavers; or, Revelations of an Opera Manager in America," containing false, malicious, and libelous charges against me, and that I shall hold all parties concerned in publishing or otherwise circulating said book legally responsible. R. ULLMAN.
We shall have a few copies on hand at No. 121 Nassau-st. till the injunction is issued.
Read Maretzek's reply to Ullman in to-day's Herald, and the following from the New-York Daily News:
"Authorship is an art. Mr. Maretzek is able to handle the baton, but he is not quite so skillful when he takes up the pen; but as all men are eloquent when they feel their subject, so men write well when they have something to say, and have an intense desire to say it. This is the case with our author. He has had a bitter experience as conductor or manager since he came to New-York. He holds in his hand the character, eccentricities, points, failures, short comings and peculiarities of almost all the public performers who have stood before an American audience since his arrival in this country in 1848; and this book, full of all those details of private life, those intrigues, that common scandal, that little tattle of professional life, that the world love so well, which they run after so eagerly, and buy and devour with such exquisite relish, will be immensely popular. The opera holds a strong place in the regards of the American public, and great will be the curiosity to read these "Revelations of an Opera Manager." N. P. Willis, E. P. Fry, Thomson Bennett, Mr. Ullman, Salvi, Bettini, Badiali, Catharine Hayes and Lola Montez, hold conspicuous places in these Revelations. Some of the funniest scenes we ever read of are described in this volume. We have roared with laughter as we have perused this book. The publisher sends out this volume in elegant style.
One vol., 12mo, cloth. Price $1. Copies mailed free on receipt of price. S. FRENCH, No. 121 Nassau-st.

DE QUINCEY'S KLOSTERHEIM.
The First Edition of KLOSTERHEIM; Or, THE MASQUE, by THOMAS DE QUINCEY, with Memoir by Dr. Shelton MacKenzie, was entirely exhausted in three day after publication. The Second Edition is now ready.
Read the following impartial criticism. The Boston Traveller says: "In brilliancy of style, vigor of conception, and skill in the treatment, Klosterheim is worthy of Mr. DE QUINCEY's rich and varied powers. Indeed, the tremendous force of his imagination is more apparent in this work than in almost any of his other writings. The Biographical notice by Dr. Mackenzie is worthy of special commendation."
The Boston Transcript says: "We have read it with great pleasure."
The Gazette says: "It is one of those vigorous and attractive romances which one peruses with avidity, for the mind yields to the fascinations of the writer while the ingenious plot piques the curiosity, and the book is laid down with regret at its conclusion."
The Post says: "We do not hesitate to affirm that it is much more readable than some of his pet productions, while it is quite as instructive. It would be known at once if it appeared anonymously, as the work of a man of learning and imaginative power."

Illustrated with 40 engravings, from the author's own Sketches. 1 vol. Cloth, 12mo. Price, $1 50.
NOTICES OF THE PRESS.
From the Evening Mirror.
If the reader wishes to enjoy one of the rarest and most interesting of volumes, let him get "The Prison of Weltevreden." Its barest matters-of-fact have all the grace and glow of romance. It is an extraordinary book; novel, brilliant, and possible only to have been written by one possessing a true poet's heart and brain. It is marked all over with enough evidences of genius to set up a score of modern romancists.
From the Sunday Times.
As either a romance or a narrative of fact, it is certainly attractive, and we have read it with absorbing interest. Some of the scenes are thrillingly painted, and many of the incidents are highly melo-dramatic, while not a few have exquisite touches of nature worth remembering.
From the New-York Herald.
We can recommend it to the attention of our readers as being one of the most readable and amusing books of travel that has lately appeared.

ROBERT CARTER & BROTHERS, No. 285 Broadway, will publish on TUESDAY, Nov. 20, NELLIE OF TRURO.
By the author of "Vara; Or, The Child of Adoption." 12mo. $1.
A New-York correspondent of the Louisville Journal, having examined the proof sheets of this book, writes thus:
"It is an earnest and truthful story of progressive childhood under all its varied influences of circumstance, association and opinion. Little Nellie is delightful in her innocent gayety and unforced nature; impulsive, ardent and confiding, her heart instinctively opens to the hand of affection, from which the good seed is scattered which afterward bears its appropriate fruit in her life. The other characters are happily delineated, each preserving its peculiar individuality. Life, in its daily routine of action, is unfolded on the page. The courtly, polished man of the world is seen, ever clothed in the politeness of his caste. The warm-hearted, eccentric philanthropist figures humorously with his oddities; and the gentle, Christian pastor, placed in contradistinction with the thundering Boanerges of the pulpit, succeeds in making manifest his quiet power."
The trade are requested to send in their orders immediately.

A NEW THING ENTIRELY.—THE MOST ASTONISHING PERFORMANCE HEARD OF. BARRELS, FIRKINS, KEGS, AND THE WHOLE COOPER FAMILY MADE AND FINISHED WITHOUT A DEFECT, AIR-TIGHT, AND SMOOTH ENOUGH TO VARNISH, ENTIRELY BY MACHINERY.—Our Machine with the tools used to perform the work, is a patent, for which we have received gold and silver medals, and State diplomas, and last, though not least the first and ONLY premium on keg and barrel machinery, by Jury D, at the Crystal Palace.

It takes the timber in the bolt, saws the staves, hollowing with the grain, cuts them all of equal length, planes both inside and outside perfectly smooth, tries the quality of the timber, joints them in a perfect manner, giving each stave its proper proportion of bilge, according to its width, be it wide or narrow, howells, cuts the cross, turns the head, and prepares the barrel or keg for the hooping process, in a manner so perfect, complete and well finished, that we challenge the world to produce a better barrel, firkin or keg than our Machines make at the rate of three hundred per day, to the single set—to which we invite the particular attention of all who choose to give them an inspection.

We manufacture, with our Machine, articles of the Barrel family, from the smallest White Lead Keg to the largest Cask in general use—all of which can be warranted to hold the most subtle fluids, or be adapted to the packing of dry goods. In fact, the machine cannot make an imperfect article, except the defect is exclusively in the timber.

We have a shop at Elmira, New-York, directly on the line of the New-York and Erie Railroad, and the Elmira and Niagara Falls Railroad, five minutes' walk north of the depôt, where any persons who wish can witness the operation of these Machines, and test to their perfect satisfaction every branch of the work. We feel the utmost pleasure in exhibiting to such everything connected with the work.

Persons desirous of purchasing the right and machine for any locations now sold, can obtain any information in relation thereto by applying to us through the mail. There are but few of the States remaining unsold; still, applicants will be referred to the present owners, most of whom will, without doubt, hold for disposal disposable locations within their respective territories. It is considered by all judges who have examined this machine that it surpasses everything that has been, or can be invented for the same purpose, and must entirely supersede all hand coopering. Stave and heading saw also hand.

FOR SALE.

TEN THOUSAND SUPERIOR RAILROAD TOWNSHIPS, CONSISTING OF SELECTED FRACTIONAL FARM AND WOOD LANDS, IN TRACTS OF FORTY ACRES AND UPWARDS, FOR SALE, on long credits and at low rates of interest.

They were granted by the Government to encourage the building of the Railroad, which runs from the extreme north to the extreme south of the State of Illinois. It passes, from end to end, through the richest and most fertile Prairies of the State, dotted here and there with magnificent Oak Groves. The result opening of nearly 650 miles of this road thrown open the lands for cultivation. They are scattered from one to fifteen miles on each side of it, through its entire length.

The soil is a dark, rich mold, from one to five feet in depth, is gently rolling, and peculiarly fitted for grazing cattle and sheep, and the cultivation of Wheat, Indian Corn, &c.

The first crop of Indian Corn planted on the newly broken Prairie usually pays the cost of plowing and sometimes fencing. Wheat sown on new turned sod is sure to yield very large profits. One man with a plow and two yoke of oxen will break one and a half to two acres per day. Contracts can be made for breaking ready for Corn or Wheat, at $2 to $3 50 per acre. By judicious management farms may be broken and fenced the first, and under a high state of cultivation the second year.

The large yield on the cheap lands of Illinois, over high-priced lands in the Eastern and Middle States, is known to be much more than sufficient to pay the difference of transportation to the Eastern market. The rapid increase and growth of flourishing towns and villages along the line of this road afford a growing home demand for farm produce.

Coal and wood are delivered along the road at different points, at from $1 50 to $4 the ton or cord.

Parties having in view Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, or Minnesota, for their future homes, should take into consideration that the country west of the Mississippi is destitute of railroads; that the convenience of transporting grain and produce from farms on the line of the Illinois Central Railroad, direct to the great Eastern market, is sufficient of itself to pay the investment of from $10 to $15 per acre higher than in Government lands in Iowa. In other words, that it costs so much more to get produce from the interior of the country west of the Mississippi to the Eastern market, that the farmer will find it much more profitable to locate on the line of this railroad.

PRICE AND TERMS OF PAYMENT.

The price will vary from $5 to $25, according to location, quality, &c. Contracts for deeds may be made during the year 1856, stipulating the purchase money to be paid in five annual payments, the first payment to be in two years from date of contract, the others annually thereafter. The last payment will become due at the end of the sixth year from date of contract.

By the 22d section of the Act of the Legislature, approved 10th February, 1851, these lands are free from taxation until they are paid for, and a deed of conveyance granted to the purchaser.

INTEREST WILL BE CHARGED AT ONLY TWO PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

As a security for the performance of the contract, the first twenty instalments to be paid in advance, but it must be understood that one-tenth of the land purchased shall yearly be brought under cultivation. Longer credits at six per cent. per annum may be negotiated by special application. Twenty per cent. from the credit price will be deducted for cash, in which case the Company's Constructed Bonds will be received as cash.

It is believed that the price, long credit, and low rates of interest charged for these lands, will enable a man with a few hundred dollars in cash, and ordinary industry, to make himself independent before all the purchase money becomes due. In the meantime the rapid settlement of the country will probably have increased their value four or five-fold. When required, an experienced person will accompany applicants, to give information and aid in selecting lands.

Large Plats, showing the precise location of the lands throughout the State, may be seen at the office. Small pocket Plats, as a guide to any part of the Company's lands, and pamphlets, containing interesting information accompanied by numerous letters from respectable farmers throughout the State, may be had on application at the office of the Company, No. 58 Michigan-av., Chicago.

DR. MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—This delightful and positive invigorant of the human system is fast superseding all other remedies; in fact, when its virtues become fully known it will be the only remedy in use. Its action on the nervous system and reproductive or, ans is most extraordinary; allaying all over excitement and infusing into the nervous organization that degree of tension which is requisite to give the human system the enjoyment of its full powers, both mentally and physically. As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilating with the gastric juices of the stomach, it assists them in more readily dissolving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. MEDICAL.

WHY FEMALES SUFFER IN HEALTH.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
Professor of Diseases of Women.

One Hundredth Edition (100,000) 125pp. 25 cts.

A standard work of established reputation, found classed in the catalogues of the great Trade Sales of New-York, Philadelphia, and other cities, and sold by the principal booksellers in the United States.

Every woman can here discover, by comparing her own symptoms with those described, the nature, character and cause of her complaint, and be spared much anxiety and suffering, as well as the unpleasantness of making known to, or making inquiry of, a physician in respect to the numberless ailments to which she is subject. The wife about becoming a Mother has often need of instruction and advice in respect to her situation, which she will here find. This book tells her what is the matter, and tells her what to do for it, in simple but chaste words, and such as she can understand.

Those suffering from obstructions or irregularities peculiar to the female system, or from prolapsus uteri, (falling of the womb,) or from fluor albus, will each find in its pages the means of prevention, amelioration, and relief.

Much distress of mind, as well as thousands pecuniarily, might be saved to every husband, if the simplest laws appertaining to the marriage state were better understood. That they are not better understood is traceable to that natural and almost commendable sensitiveness that will rather suffer than consult or converse with even a medical man in respect to complaints peculiar to the female only.

In a copy of "The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion," every female has a physician that knows and describes her every symptom, feeling and ailment, and which she can consult at all times without violence to her sensitiveness.

Extract of Letter from a Gentleman in Dayton, Ohio.

DAYTON, May 1, 1847.

Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU—My Dear Sir: My wife has been perceptibly stalking for some three years on the verge of the repository of great anguish and suffering some months before and during confinement; every successive one more and more debilitated and prostrated her, putting her life in imminent danger, and yesterday was on the last occasion despaired of. I suggested that the book of Mauriceau was invaluable, and resolved myself to meet the worst. I forward your book highly spoken of, as containing some matters reaching my case. On its receipt and perusal I cannot express to you the relief it afforded my distressed mind, and the joy its pages imparted to my wife, on learning that the great discovery of M. M. Mauriceau provided a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which I little conceived was possible. But for this, one another year would have passed over my head, in all human probability my wife would have been in her grave and my children left motherless.

DYSPEPSIA CURED.

The grand secret in the preservation of health is to prevent constipation; strive to secure a regular and vigorous action of the digestive functions, and when symptoms of costiveness present themselves it can be at once relieved by taking SHUMANN'S DYSPEPSIA ELIXIR, which in all cases will be found a speedy and permanent remedy. For sale by A. B. & D. SANDS, druggists, 100 Fulton-st.

TO THE FRIENDLESS.—Have you contracted that terrible disease which, when once seated in the system, will surely go down from one generation to another, undermining the constitution and sapping the very vital fluids of life? Do not trust yourself in the hands of mushroom Quacks that start up every day in a City like this, and fill the papers with abominable falsehoods, too well calculated to deceive the young, and those who are not posted up to the tricks of foreign and domestic impostors.

You cannot be too careful in the selection of a physician and a remedy in these cases. You should apply to a man who has had an ample experience thereof. Such a physician is Dr. HUNTER, proprietor of the Hunterian Dispensary, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City. He lays his claims on the following facts which can be proved at any moment.

He has been in active practice over twenty-five years in this City, and established the above institution in 1823, exclusively for the treatment of venereal diseases, and has devoted all his abilities during all that time to this branch of medicine only. His great remedy—HUNTER'S RED DROP—a medicine perfectly innocent in its action, yet so thorough that it annihilates every particle of the rank and and poisonous virus of this dreadful disease; and on this account alone, it is the safest, most reliable, and speedy remedies it does not dry up the disease in the blood, to break out at a remote period all over the body, or to transmit to the offspring. It has saved the pedigree of some of the best families in America, and has saved more lives since its introduction than any other medicine. It has been counterfeited and slandered more than any remedy of any kind ever brought before the public, and owing that unless they enter the unfortunate from obtaining it, their prospect for patronage is gone. For the years back every community has been flooded with it from other cities, but not up some like about this remedy, and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then take the opposite tack: i. e. pretend they can make it. Dr. HUNTER restores people to sound health daily, who have been ruined with mercury and cantrips by those humbugs. The Hunterian Dispensary is conducted on the most honorable principles. No man is taken in by the Hunterian. Dr. Hunter knows his business is to cure his patients, and no one knows but his patients and himself that they ever met professionally. He desires young men attached to respectable families, and who are led astray by the numerous temptations of City life to understand this. He but while pay dwells the money in their. We the question was first agitated in the Convention, a memorial came from Arequipa, in the South, the fighting portion of the country, signed by 10,000 inhabitants, who declared that they would not submit to Liberty. By to-morrow, also, representations of the wishes of the whole country to be very bad. Provisions are high, on account of the disembarkment by the magnet of the estates, and the roads and mountain passes are filled with robbers. The police in Lima have at most as they can do to watch the idle block population that is swarming into it, and the city is much less free from crime than it was in the time of Rosencrans.

As the British mail which left Valparaiso on the 16th ultimo, will not arrive here till the 24th, I am unable to send you any later news. But you may calculate with certainty that although the attempted revolution in Bolivia against the new President Corrosya had received a check, it has not been extinguished, but will afford several months employment and amusement to the professional blood-letters, the military.

Chili seemed to be going on as prosperously as could be expected under Jesuitical influence. The railroads are progressing; the wheat crop looks flourishing, and bread is falling in price. The Panama Star of the 26th ult., contains the following, which will no doubt be interesting to moneyed Californians in your midst:

We learn by a gentleman who came up from Valparaiso on the last British steamer, that, at the request of the Governor of California, the Chili Government recently placed a body of soldiers at the disposal of the United States Minister, in the latter country, to assist him in the arrest of the defaulter Mezces, who, it will be recollected, absconded some time since with San Francisco city funds. The soldiers we are told, proceeded under the direction of the Minister's representative, to the residence of Mezces in Talcahuanos, but that worthy having been advised of the movement by some parties in Valparaiso, managed to effect his escape to Buenos Ayres previous to the arrival of the party, at that they were obliged to return without effecting their object. It is supposed that Mezces is now beyond the reach of detection.

It will be recollected that one fine morning it was discovered in San Francisco, that Mezces, who was supposed to be immensely rich, and who had the general confidence of the nabobs, had purchased a fine vessel, and the day before, after embarking himself and his personal chattels on her, had left the Golden Gate astern, bound, no one knew whither. Upon inquiry, it was soon found that he had negotiated an immense amount of forged City and State paper. When his flight became an established fact, everybody's indorsement on his paper was alleged to be a forgery. But as many thousands of dollars of this indorsed paper is suspected to be genuine, no doubt there will be considerable satisfaction felt among several "respectable citizens" of California at his timely escape. The last Legislature of California passed a law compounding the felony with Mezces on condition that he would return and expose his accomplices in his financial exploit; but as he could not see how he was to be benefited by such a proceeding, he declined the invitation.

It is understood that Mezces did not carry away much of the fruits of his dishonesty, but lost the greater part of his swindlings in unfortunate speculations. Since he has been in Chili he has been living prudently, on the charter and freighting of his ship.

Chili.

The national festivities of September almost put a stop to business during the term of their duration. Everything passed off well, and the opening of a portion of the Valparaiso and Santiago Railroad formed not the least interesting feature in the festivities.

Congress was adjourned, but was to be convoked in extra session to examine the civil code.

COMMERCIAL.—There is little to report, owing to the almost total depression of business during the festivities. The arrivals from abroad during the period have been trifling.

The demand for Flour has fallen off; the last sale for export was made at $14, and the prices for home consumption are now quoted at $15 for good Santiago brands, and $11 @ 14 for general mark of Constitution and Talcahuano ground, cash.

Wheat and Barley in small lots have been offered, the former at $5@$6 cash, the latter at $3 cash. The demand is not great.

Copper is scarce, and no transactions have taken place.

Freights—Ore to Antwerp, £5; Saltpetre, do., £4 15s.; Saltpetre to Falmouth for orders, £5.

Bolivia.

Scarcely had BELZU left Bolivia before revolutionary movements broke out in various places. On the 16th of September Col. GUTIERREZ, Dr. TAPIA, Gen. LANZA, and Colonels MONTALVO, YANES, MARIN, and many others, raised the revolutionary standard in Pucarini. Gen. MOLINA, with a force of about one hundred men and two guns, marched to attack the revolutionists, but LANZA, hearing of his approach, left town. He was, however, afterwards met by the Government forces, and ZARATA and MOSCOSO, two of the revolutionary leaders, were killed.

In Cercocro Dr. LINARES and others also got up a revolutionary movement, but it was put down by the National Guard, and the arrival of the cavalry who had accompanied BELZU to the coast. LINARES and the other leaders escaped. Some of the periodicals of La Paz state that the revolution is quite put down in the North, but in Oruro, Cochoalamba and Santa Cruz, and la Sierra, all was not yet quiet.

Peru.

The Convention still continues in session. The question of religious toleration is exciting a great deal of interest among all parties.

Letters have been received from the gold hunting party who started for the Amazons under the auspices of Government. They had advanced to Pancortumbo, (Sept. 9,) after having experienced many hardships on the road from the Government officers, who were ordered to assist them. All provisions had to be purchased at dear rates, and many of the party at one time felt inclined to return. At Pancortumbo, the expeditionists were well received, and received part of the money promised them for their expenses, but not the arms as promised. A messenger had to be sent back to Lima for more explicit orders from the Government. The party had to build launches, and do not expect to leave for six months. At Cuzco they received an accession to their number, still are now about forty strong. Gold was found in the neighborhood of Pancortumbo, and a party of ten were to start on a prospecting tour. The gold is described as similar to that of Australia.

INTERESTING FROM AUSTRALIA.

Expedition to Explore the Victoria River.

The Moreton Bay Free Press of Aug. 7, gives the following account of Mr. GREGORY's expedition:

The Monarch received on board 80 horses and 200 sheep at Eagle Farm, for the service of Mr. GREGORY's exploring expedition. The whole of the party left Brisbane on Wednesday, Aug. 1, and the two vessels were to proceed to sea with the least possible delay, making directly for the Victoria River, by the route of Torres Strait. The objects of the expedition are, briefly, to trace the Victoria to its source, and to determine the character of the northwestern interior, and afterwards to endeavor to find out a more direct track than the circuitous route traversed by LEICHHARDT, from the head of the Gulf of Carpentaria to the settlements on the eastern coast, comprised under the general name of Moreton Bay. Formerly, the starting of such an expedition would have been the great event talked of throughout the colonies, but at present its importance is totally eclipsed by the interest attached to the receipt of news from the seat of war. Nevertheless, the labors of Mr. GREGORY and his companions, if successful, are likely to be of vast importance, not only to the Australian colonies, but to the whole civilized, and even to no small portion of the savage, world. That Mr. Gregory and his adventurous party may triumphantly overcome all the various obstacles which they are sure to meet in the course of their interesting journey, and that they may bring their expedition to a successful termination, must be the fervent prayer of all. The time required to do this is estimated at not less than three years. The record of so much travel among savage and unknown scenes cannot fail to be interesting in the highest degree. Altogether the expedition seems to be well appointed, and, doubtless, every precaution, dictated by the experience of previous explorations, has been taken to crown it with ultimate success.

In Melbourne flour was $44 per ton, with plenty in the market, and more to arrive. Business generally was dull.

Matched Horses.

From the Boston Journal.

Among the matched carriage horses we notice a pair belonging to D. RAYMOND, of Summerville, N. J., which from their noble bearing and beautiful appearance, attracted, perhaps, more attention than any other pair upon the ground. These are 16½ hands high, of a beautiful gray color, and are finely proportioned. Their names are Peter and Dandy, and the movements of the chief Peter in "Uncle Tom" were not more highly appreciated by the thousands of readers of that work, than were the steps of the noble Peter under notice. Dandy is also a fit companion. This pair took the first premium three years since, as sucklings, since, and have also drawn the first prize at the New-Jersey and Hackensack State Fairs. They also took the first premium as matched horses at the United States Fair, recently held in Boston.

TIMOTHY CLARK, South Norwalk, Conn.—Sir: I have seen in the Times of the 7th inst. your reply to my letter of the 30th ult. You say you have given it due consideration, and yet you do not reply to a single point at issue between us, but your whole answer is made up of bogus, logs, cases and cases, subjects which you are doubtless more familiar with than Eclipse Fire Regulators. Now, Sir, to come to the point at once, we again challenge you, to say publicly, what you only dare, intimate, that your action in the Scientific American refers to the patent we hold of PARSONS CLARK. Come, Sir! no dodging the question; answer it honestly, and then you may rest assured we will at once give both you and your Attorney all the settlement you desire, and more too. You know very well that our patent consists (not as you assert in a cylindrical diaphragm,) but simply on its use in combination with a spindle and piston, so arranged as to operate the damper of a boiler fire by means of the pressure of the steam. Now, Sir! we again dare you to say that our patent is an infringement on yours, and wherein; and in conclusion, "permit us to advise you to act as a sensible man should," come to the point at once, accept our challenge, give the matter a legal test, employ another Attorney or Sue, or call at our Office and apologize for your untruthful statements, and also tell the public, what you know to be a fact, that our Regulator is the only "good article" now in existence.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 13, P. M.

The Bank Statement officially published this morning, the non-engagement of specie for the Collins steamer to-morrow, the arrival this afternoon of the California steamer, with $1,654,000 in gold, and the low rates and abundant supply of Foreign bills for the present European packet, all contributed to a better state of things in Wall-street to-day. The Banks, however, move with caution, and the supply of money is still felt to be restricted, particularly by Stock operators, whose wants have increased with the activity of the market. The highest rise at the Stock Exchange was in Erie Stock, which sold freely in the early part of the day, at from 49 to 50¼, closing in the afternoon at 48¾@49, against 47¾ yesterday. The other Stocks of the regular list sympathized with the leading speculation to the extent of 1@3 per cent., and although at the close the advance was not generally sustained, the prices were decidedly higher and the demand an improvement from Monday. Illinois Centrals closed at 79¼; Michigan Central, 94¼; Southern, 93¾; New-York Central, 90; Reading, 88; Toledo, 69; Panama, 103; and Missouri Sixes, 83¼. The rate for Money at call was nominally 7 ⅌ cent., but much larger differences were paid for buyers' options at the Stock Board, and a liberal commission to the money brokers for carrying Stocks. Prime mercantile paper was done at 12 ⅌ cent. The offerings at the large Banks have increased this week beyond their income from the maturing paper. The Foreign Exchange market was active early in the day, and some considerable transactions had in London at 108¼@108⅝, first class names, and 107¾@108 for transient bills without City indorsement. The regular bankers continued to ask 108⅜ for moderate sums drawn to a point, though, with cash in hand, buyers were enabled to make better terms for large amounts. Paris irregular 5.22½@5.28¾, and North of Europe dull at 77¾@78¼ on Bremen; 35½@36 on Hamburg; francs on Antwerp 5.22½. The Sub Treasury received to-day $92,000; disbursed $24,218, and held at the close a regular balance of $6,780,678. The Metropolitan Fire Insurance Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 ⅌ cent.

A few days since our Special Washington Correspondent, learning that the amiable Assistant Secretary of the Treasury had furnished one of our morning cotemporaries with the Import Trade tables of 1855, to the exclusion of other New-York papers—in revenge, we suppose, for the march which the enterprise of the DAILY TIMES made upon the snail-like movements of the Department, in October, on the Export tolls—had occasion to telegraph the Import figures in season for their appearance in our columns the same morning they were published by the official organ in this City. The work was done in prompt and admirably correct style by the House Printing Telegraph, corner of Broad and Wall streets, in less than three hours and a half. A glance at the elaborate table which we published yesterday of the Imports from seventy-two different countries; the amount in American and in foreign vessels, and the amount from the dominions of each foreign power, will serve to illustrate the peculiar character of this achievement. In addition to this we had the particulars to the last dollar of every leading article of Import, and a conversational correspondence with our agent, 780 miles distant, as to the arrangement of the table, the particulars wanted, and the correction of errors or discrepancies as they were discovered in the course of the telegraphic operation. Each sum was printed in full, without the use of a single cypher, and altogether the execution of the task was such as to impress us most profoundly with the wonderful achievements of this useful invention of modern science. With such a ready assistant to the diligence and enterprise of the NEW-YORK DAILY TIMES, we think it about time that Mr. PETER G. WASHINGTON, of the Treasury Department, for his own credit, should consent hereafter to publish the results of the commerce of the country to the world, as rapidly as they are ascertained, through the Government paper at Washington.

The October earnings on the Western Railroads continue to come in, in favorable contrast with the business of last year. We subjoin the relative showing of the Michigan Central, and the Milwaukee and Mississippi lines. The large increase on the passenger traffic of the former will illustrate the fact that the improvement from the previous season is not owing exclusively to the increased business from our present large crop, but to the increase of the general business on Railways throughout the West. The showing of the new line from Milwaukee, on Lake Michigan, in the direction of the Mississippi River, is very remarkable. The capital stock involved is only one million, upon which the net earnings in 10 months is equal to 18.45 ⅌ cent. We understand that the half-yearly cash dividend in January will be 5 ⅌ cent., leaving a liberal surplus to contingencies.

The Norwich and Worcester Road earned in October $98,998 against $79,926 last year. The Pennsylvania Central Road earned in the same month $474,194 against $366,236 same month last year. For the ten months the totals are—

In 1855	$3,468,324
In 1854	3,056,739
Increase	$411,185

The Ohio and Pennsylvania Road, owing to direct competition with the Ohio Ring, which has kept up for months a ruinous rate of freight, still shows a falling off of $67,688 for the ten months of 1855, a falling off of 10 ⅌ cent. of the gross earnings of 1854.

MR. ADRIAN H. MULLER will hold his regular sale of Stocks to-morrow at 12½ o'clock, at the Merchants' Exchange. Some good Securities, we are requested to say, will be sold by order of administrators.

In his Message to the Legislature, Governor PRICE, of Missouri, states that the issue of Bonds to the several Railroad Companies, in aid of their works, and secured by a primary mortgage upon the entire property, amounts to $4,580,000. This is the only public debt in Missouri, except about $805,000 old obligations, issued for subscription to the Bank of Missouri, against which is the State interest in the Bank now valued at $912,000, and paying a regular dividend of 10, and an occasional extra dividend of 10 ⅌ cent. a year. The promised aid, $3,000,000, to the Pacific Railroad, main trunk, has been exhausted. The aid, $1,000,000, to the Southwestern Branch has not been applied for. The other Roads have received $1,580,000 of the three millions promised, and no further issue will be made until additional progress in the prosecution of the lines is reported. These Companies are the North Missouri, Iron Mountain and Hannibal and St. Joseph.

The rumor that a large amount of gold came out in the Baltic, two weeks since, for the purchase of Grain, is explained, rather than confirmed, by the appearance in this market of certain post bills of the Bank of England, bearing date Oct. 19, the day before the Baltic sailed, which went to the West, and have since returned to New-York to be sold. They are drawn at 30 days, and sighted by the Bank of England the day they bear date.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Nov. 13, 1855.

To the condition of depression in which our Stock Market had fallen at the date of our last advices of 5th instant, has succeeded during the week a marked reaction upward, which has been almost as rapid as had been the decline. The low prices to which most Stocks had fallen, have attracted measurably the attention of capitalists, whose purchases, besides those made on speculation, have contributed in producing the movement which we notice, and which has naturally been more sensibly felt upon such Stocks as had been more particularly depressed. The rates of Exchanges on Europe, which are heavy and downward, tend to allay the sensitiveness of our market, as regards gold shipments. The movements of Specie, as well to the interior as for export, are closely watched, as one of the causes bearing most directly upon the action of our Banks, who still continue to contract their lines of discount.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Nov. 13, 1855.

The day after our last advices of the 5th inst. the panic continued still on the increase; loans on speculative securities were almost impossible to obtain, and lower quotations were reached than had been seen since the end of last year. But on the 7th, upon the more encouraging intelligence brought out by the steamer Asia, to the 27th ult., our Stock market began to rally; and as the fall had been chiefly occasioned by the fears in relation to the London and Paris markets, there was a return of capital for stock purchases, and after three days of frequent and wide fluctuation, the condition of things is at length much improved, and we notice a general revival in all securities, without, however, having regained the prices that ruled about three weeks ago. Speculation continues active, both for a rise and for a fall—the latter relying on the scarcity of money now existing along the Atlantic cities, at Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, as well as at New-York; the former on the well-founded hope of seeing the money market favorably affected, ere long, by the flourishing condition of the country and the improving state of our commercial relations with foreign nations. The last steamer brought out a number of orders, both for the purchase and sale of our stocks, for foreign account. No serious importance seems to have been attached here to the comments which have appeared in the English journals, and on which so much stress seems to have been laid in the private letters received per Asia, respecting the movements of the British fleet in the Gulf of Mexico, and the want of cordiality between the British and Federal Governments.

Per Baltic.] NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Nov. 13, 1855.

The course of the stock market during the fortnight has been marked by frequent important fluctuations. The symptoms of panic which existed at the date of our last report became daily more decided, and the downward tendency of prices continued unchecked until the arrival of the Arago, on 8th inst., with accounts of an advance in Consols, and a more favorable position of money matters in London than was generally anticipated from the character of the previous advices. A decided reaction immediately took place, and the upward movement was accelerated by the additional favorable intelligence received per Asia, and by free purchases of stocks for investment, induced by the great depression of prices, and the belief that they had touched the lowest point. Considerable uneasiness, however, is still felt on account of the continued demand for specie in London and Paris, and later advices are anxiously awaited. The sales of State Stocks have been generally quite limited, and, with a few exceptions, the change in prices has been very slight. The principal transactions have been in Virginia and Missouri 6's at from 93¾ to 94¾ for the former, and 83¾ to 84¾ for the latter, and both are firm at the above, at the outside rates. New-York State's, of the recent issues, are offered at rather easier rates, without, however, any disposition to press sales. A new notification of about $4,000,000 will shortly be made to provide for the payment of the loans due 1st January next. Our quotations for U. S. Stocks are the prices paid at the Treasury Department. There is no private demand at these rates, and the time limited in the proposals of the Secretary of the Treasury, for the purchase of the different loans, expires on the
